SOUTHERN LEADERS

American Importers
Would Select German
Products To Be Taken in Exchange for Cotton.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Completion of a $30,000,000 cotton barter deal with Germany apparently is near today when American officials were informed that the Hitler government had approved the transaction.

Only clearance at the state and treasury departments remained, informed sources said, to consummate the transaction expected to furnish an outlet for 500,000 bales—and perhaps 800,000—of the country's principal export product.

Officials said the exchange had been approved by the export-import bank, directed by George N. Peek; Oscar Johnson, manager of the AAA cotton pool, and the agricultural adjustment administration.

Favorable Ruling Seen.
The treasury is to give its ruling within the next few days and indications today were that it would be favorable. A strong effort was being made by southern interests to persuade the state department that the deal was vital to the welfare of the south.

In return for the cotton, this country is to accept German goods approximating the value of the staple. Nitrate is one German product mentioned but it was expected American importers are to select the German products in the trade swap.

American packing concerns were involved in the negotiations which led the Germans to accept United States proposals, but whether a large quantity of pork products would be included in the deal was not known.

Officials in touch with the parties said that 500,000 bales was the minimum Germany agreed to accept and that 800,000 may be exported.

The export-import bank will handle the transfer of dollars and marks, although the transfer in effect will be barter.

Senators Back Deal.
Several southern senators, including Harrison, of Mississippi, and Bankhead, of Alabama, have been on the treasury and state department officials in an effort to speed completion of the transaction.

Senator Bankhead conferred today with Carl Albert, Bremen textile manufacturer, one of the German delegation that has conferred with Peek and Johnson.

Treasury hesitancy, it was said, has grown out of the questions whether the price agreed upon for the nitrates and other German goods might violate the anti-dumping statutes.

The German nitrates would replace those brought now from Chile at the same price.

Z. D. Harrison Retires After 66-Year Record

Miss Katharine Caroline Bleckley (left), who succeeds Colonel Z. D. Harrison (right) as clerk of the Georgia supreme court.

By L. A. FARRELL.
On the morning of December 5, 1934, 66 years ago Saturday, as Atlanta was rising from the ashes of the War Between the States and the reconstructionists were moving the state capitol from Milledgeville to this city, 26-year-old Zedekiah Harrison, an ambitious young lawyer, started to walk from his home in the downtown section to see what the day would bring forth.

On his way he encountered a friend, B. B. deGrassie, who was then a young man, just turned republican, "I'm now on my way to the capitol to be sworn in as clerk of the supreme court. How would you like to be my deputy?"

deGrassie told him, "I'm now on my way to the capitol to be sworn in as clerk of the supreme court. How would you like to be my deputy?"

deGrassie was sworn in that morning and three days later young Harrison was sworn in as clerk of the supreme court.

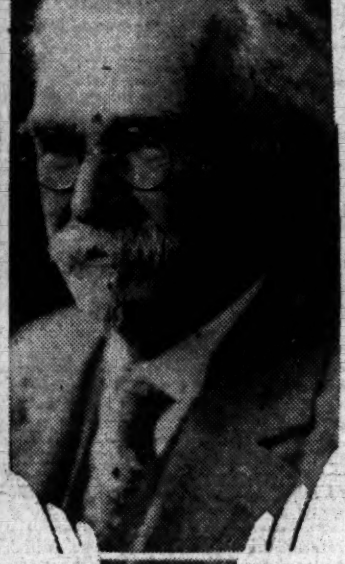

A little more than two years later, on January 10, 1931, Mr. Harrison became clerk on the death of deGrassie.

Long Record Closes.
The record of 66 years, believed to be the longest ever achieved by any public official in the United States, certainly the longest in Georgia's history, ended Wednesday when Chief Justice Richard B. Russell Sr. announced for the court that Mr. Harrison, now more than 92 years old, had declined to stand for reelection and that Miss Katharine Caroline Bleckley, daughter of Logan Bleckley, clerk of the court of appeals, and granddaughter of the late great Chief Justice Logan Bleckley, has been elected to succeed him.

So ends the public career of Zedekiah Harrison, one of the last of the southern gentlemen of statecraft, a patriarch who knows Georgia's history and its people.

CITY LIQUOR STORE ELECTION BACKED BY 17 COUNCILMEN

Only Three Short of Majority Support Key's Proposal for Referendum on Defeated Plan.

Seventeen members of council, three short of a clear majority, agreed Wednesday to send Mayor James L. Key's proposal to establish a city-operated liquor dispensary to the people in a special election to be called within the next 10 days.

The unofficial poll, taken by The Constitution, followed the mayor's most recent drive to make the city store a reality, when he asserted that if a majority of council would back the proposal, he would call a special meeting of council to set the election.

Key predicted that the people of Atlanta would vote it by a majority of at least three to one.

While Key was laying the foundation for a vote on the issue, Councilman John A. White, vice chairman of the charter revision committee, called a meeting of that body for 10 o'clock Saturday morning to consider a proposed charter amendment giving Atlanta the right to operate the dispensary to the exclusion of private sale of intoxicants.

White announced that the resolution, offered by Councilman Joseph E. Berman, White's fourth ward colleague in council, will be introduced by White to provide that the city may regulate and control all liquor sales, to bar drinking in theaters, churches, on the streets or any other public places, to bar the breaking of seals on bottles at city liquor stores, to allow the city to confiscate all liquors not sold at the store and to provide penalties for violation of any provisions of the White amendment.

Thirty-four of the 39 members of council were contacted Wednesday afternoon and it was predicted that the remaining three votes necessary to introduce the resolution would be mustered if a call is issued for council.

Of the 17 members who failed to give support to the referendum, 11 were opposed, five were undecided and one, Councilman J. T. Beck, of the eighth ward, asserted:

"Don't use me in connection with that matter at all. I'd rather stay out of it."

Free Services Sought.
Key plans to ask election managers and clerks to donate their services and to request owners of shops where booths are located to allow their free use.

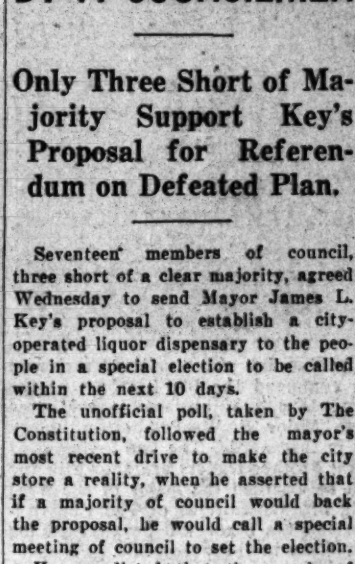

Council at its meeting Monday failed by a vote of 27 to 9 to authorize Key to open the liquor store immediately.

The mayor sponsored the measure to avoid an aggregate 32 per cent salary cut for city employees for 1935.

The mayor Wednesday asserted he is not in a hurry to decide the issue, but a special election is being planned.

He will make on his periodic reports to the nation over the radio in about 10 days, probably a week from next Sunday night. This will be a summation of the past few months and a discussion of the Roosevelt policy for government cooperation for the low income group with private industry.

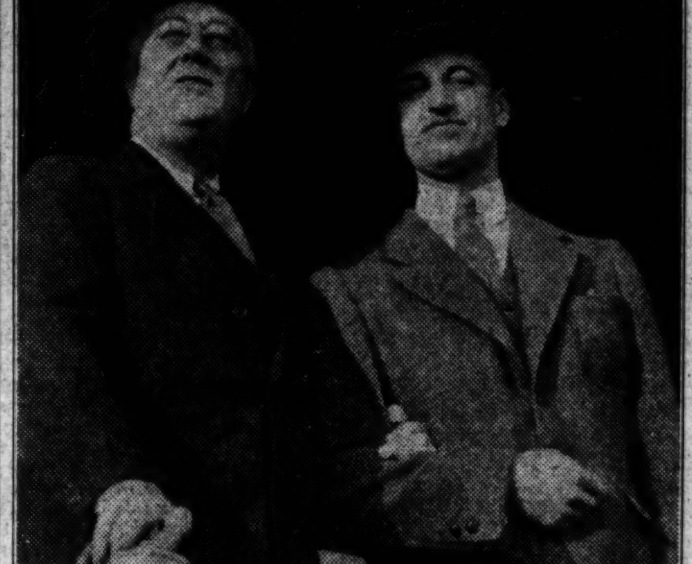

Visitors at the little White House in Warm Springs received the very distinct impression that the president is willing and anxious for the private dollar to take over its task but until the federal government can take over the control system as the means to bring peace to the American farmer.

December 21 Letting Will Be Largest of Talmadge Regime; Many Atlanta Projects Involved.

The state highway board announced Wednesday that it will award $1,500,000 worth of paving, grading and bridge contracts on December 21 at the largest letting thus far during the Talmadge administration and one of the largest in the history of the state.

The letting, which will be entirely of federal funds, will leave only about $250,000 unpaid of the state's $10,000,000 federal emergency road fund provided by the public works administration. In announcing the details, Chairman W. Eugene Wilburn, of the highway board, said that the balance of the fund would be expended at a letting early in January. From another federal grant of $5,000,000, he said, there are 30 projects to be contracted for at the letting announced Wednesday.

Atlanta Projects.
The Atlanta project included three which will bring about the completed grading of the new Atlanta-Marietta road, via Face's Ferry road, and the construction of a new bridge over the Chattahoochee river connecting the Fulton and Cobb county links of this new traffic artery. The three projects call for an expenditure of about $225,000 on this road alone. In addition to the bridge, they call for the grading of about eight and a half miles of the road, and the paving of the road to be started.

The projects listed by Chairman Wilburn also call for the completion of the grading and bridge work on the Atlanta-Buford road and the start of the paving on that highway, which nearly half a million dollars will have been expended when the road is completely paved.

The projects affecting this road included in the forthcoming letting provided for the completion of the grading by working over 5,108 miles in DeKalb county, the construction of a new bridge over Peachtree creek and the paving of 5,138 miles on the Buford road in Gwinnett county. Chairman Wilburn said that a total of $180,000 would be set up for these three projects.

Between the Atlanta-Marietta road and the Atlanta-Buford road, Atlanta and the surrounding territory will get more than $400,000 of the total to be expended at the letting, Mr. Wilburn said. "Of course it is not all in Fulton county, but the highways affect the entire state."

NOTED CHEMIST REALIZES DREAM

Plants Report Material
Compare Favorably
With That of Other Rayon Pulp Used.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Beautiful rayon yarn from pine pulp is the second great development in the pulp and paper laboratory of the Industrial Committee of Savannah, Inc., announced today by Dr. Charles H. Herty, director.

Rayon yarn, he said, has been manufactured in one of the greatest rayon plants in the country from pulp prepared in the Savannah laboratory.

The manufacture of rayon yarn makes the second successful experiment with pine pulp, the previous one being the manufacture of newsprint.

Raw material for the manufacture of rayon yarn and newsprint is abundant in the southeast, authorities have announced.

As Dr. Herty puts it, the manufacture of rayon from pine means that "Faith in Fiber."

"I think this sample of rayon constitutes the perfection of the pine tree and furnishes an abundant supply of material for the manufacture of rayon yarn and newsprint."

That is the exultant note from the eminent chemical engineer, whose dream, now come true, has been to utilize the vast resources of southern pine for the betterment of the people of the south.

One great rayon manufacturing plant produced the sample he refers to and another investigated the pulp thoroughly. Here are their expert opinions, which leave no doubt of the success of the development.

One says: "We are glad to report on the small scale experiment with your pulp sample submitted to us on October 10, 1934."

The processing of this pulp on a small scale was quite successful. Spinning was satisfactory, the color of the yarn was about equal to the color obtained with standard qualities of rayon pulp. The physical properties of the yarn were entirely satisfactory.

In general it may be said that the experimental results with this sample are most satisfactory and highly satisfactory and we wish to congratulate you on your success.

Simultaneously with the Washington release of a report on an investigation of the Fulton county relief administration, new attacks on that organization were made Wednesday in Fulton superior court, preliminary to the trial of Roy S. Dunnaway, former officer manager of the Edgewood district, who is charged with embezzlement, forgery and larceny after trust of relief funds.

The Washington report was made by Miss Helen C. Maxwell, regional transient director to Harry L. Hopkins, federal administrator. The investigation was instigated by Miss Gray B. Shepperson, Georgia relief administrator, who, in a statement issued Wednesday, said "constant vigilance" was being maintained.

EMBARGO EVASION DENIED BY DU PONT

Munitions Executive Demands
Hoover Be Called To Testify.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The story of an indirect shipment of Du Pont explosives to Manchuria, despite embargo restrictions, and the tale of a cargo of gun powder "that changed its appearance at sea" was promised to the senate munitions committee today by Senator Clark, democrat, Missouri.

These promised disclosures shared interest with a challenge to the committee by Treneer du Pont that it call Herbert Hoover to the witness stand.

Hoover was mentioned in previous testimony as having talked with arms makers before the 1925 Geneva conference. Du Pont suggested that he and others be called to give evidence whether the munitions industry had interfered with that party. Committee members, in the absence of Chairman Nye, gave no indication whether he would be summoned.

Denies Responsibility.
In reply to Senator Clark's promise to disclose "strange" arms shipment stories, K. K. V. Casey, du Pont official, in testifying before the committee, immediately entered a disclaimer of all knowledge on the part of his company of where the munitions in question were bound and of responsibility for any evasion of the embargo.

Through a series of reports to the Du Pont Company from its Chinese representative, Captain I. V. Gillis, a former navy officer, Clark disclosed what he interpreted as a persistent effort on the part of the du Ponts to have the embargo lifted.

Clark produced correspondence he said showed a shipment of 40 tons of TNT to China in 1925 in false boxes, sent through the China-Japan Trading Company.

Casey testified he learned only subsequently that the explosive reached a war lord at Mukden.

"We had one put over on us," he said.

Hoover's Statement.
Committee members showed considerable interest in a statement by former President Hoover at Palo Alto today that the 1925 Geneva arms control convention failed because its ratification was delayed and not because of his activities in helping American munitions makers protect their business in "sporting arms and ammunition."

The full reports and details of the conference of sporting arms manufacturers, which was called by myself as secretary of commerce in 1925, and yesterday referred to before a senate committee, are no doubt in the state department," Hoover said.

The conference was called at the request of the secretary of state and continued in Page 6, Column 6.

2 Life Term Prisoners Escape in Cobb County

MARIETTA, Ga., Dec. 5.—Two life-term prisoners, Delois Clements, 24, son of a former member of the legislature from Telfair county, convicted of the murder of a Scotland, Ga., merchant, and Hoyt Evans, 33, also given a life sentence in Pickens county for murder in 1929, escaped from a Cobb county prison camp this afternoon.

Clements, said to be a trusty, accompanied by Evans, left the Marietta camp on a truck to bring in other prisoners who were doing road work. The pair has not been seen since, neither has the truck been located.

The truck was marked "Cobb County No. 2." Evans was dressed in prison stripes and Clements was wearing a gray suit, officials said.

The Scotland slaying in 1931 created a sensation when the body of a merchant was found outside the town and young Clements, son of J. H. Clements, member of the legislature from Telfair county at the time, was arrested and charged with the crime. He was tried and sentenced to life imprisonment.

ALEXANDER BEATS WOODS IN DECATUR IN CAPITAL ACTION

George Henderson Returned to Commission;
Nominees Win Here.

H. F. George and R. Cliff Henderson, incumbent Decatur commissioners, Wednesday were returned to office for another three years and Hooper Alexander Jr., ousted George W. Woods, incumbent, in unofficial returns of the general election.

It was believed certain that Atlanta voters had confirmed nominees of the city democratic primary, though official returns from two races in which Alderman Guy Coleman and School Commissioner H. J. Landers, of the first ward, had independent opposition, will not be known until today at the city hall.

Maceo Blackshear and B. M. Sheridan, listed in the city directory as shoemakers and dealers in Georgia and other states of the Union. The petition was filed on behalf of H. A. Emery, proprietor of a restaurant at 10 East street, S. W., Atlanta, by Attorneys Marion Smith, of Atlanta and Miller and Chevalier, of Washington, and was directed against Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and Commissioner of Internal Revenue Guy T. Helvering.

Under a new law passed recently by congress, it is alleged by the petitioner that a declaratory judgment can be rendered by federal courts to determine the rights of parties.

The constitutionality of section 701 of the act of 1928 is attacked on these grounds:

1. That the sections, which provides a special excise tax of $1,000 on dealers and manufacturers of malt or spirituous liquors in territory having dry laws, violates the fifth amendment in that it threatens to take property without due process of law.

2. That it violates section 8 of article 1 of the constitution, which provides all taxes shall be equal, in that it levies a tax on certain dealers in dry territory at one rate and those in a wet territory at another rate; and

3. That the tenth amendment is violated in that police powers over sale of beer and liquor are reserved to the states.

BEER TAX TESTED IN CAPITAL ACTION

Atlanta Dealer's Plea Is Laid Before District of Columbia Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The District of Columbia supreme court today had under consideration a civil suit to test the constitutionality of the revenue act of 1928 which imposes a special excise tax of $1,000 a year upon beer and liquor manufacturers and dealers operating in Georgia and other dry states of the Union.

The petition was filed on behalf of H. A. Emery, proprietor of a restaurant at 10 East street, S. W., Atlanta, by Attorneys Marion Smith, of Atlanta and Miller and Chevalier, of Washington, and was directed against Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and Commissioner of Internal Revenue Guy T. Hungarians Incensed
By Slav Deportations

BURBANK, Cal., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Fire swept Warner Brothers' First National Studio here, causing one death, injuring 15 persons, and doing damage estimated at $300,000 before it was extinguished early today.

Albert Roudner, 63-year-old fire chief of Burbank, said the fire broke out at a first-aid station of heat failure, which doctors said was induced by the excitement of the conflagration.

Rudolph Hoop, an actor, and Nick Potokoff, studio workman, were the most seriously injured. Roudner suffered a broken leg, minor burns, and bruises.

Officials of the film plant said the fire swept over about half the 80 acres occupied by the studio, but that the area was of minor importance to the production of pictures.

$5,000,000 SPENT IN GEORGIA BY FHA

Drive Here Producing Daily Pledges Totalling $40,000, Report Shows.

A federal housing campaign that in Atlanta alone is producing more than $40,000 a day in pledges for modernization and repair work, has boosted the building and repair industry in Georgia to a peak of $5,000,000 since August 15, according to FHA records here. Roger Steffen, modernization credit director in Washington, and vice president on leave of the National City Bank, New York, praised the work done by the Georgia state and regional FHA organizations, in an address before bankers of this district Wednesday.

The money spent in modernization work throughout the state is estimated by W. D. Cornwell, assistant state FHA director, to have provided work for 10,250 men, 1,050 of whom were taken off relief rolls, while in Atlanta $2,700,000 of the four to five million-dollar goal set for work pledges has been reached. Thirteen hundred calls are made daily in which a work survey is conducted with recommendations on what repair work is necessary submitted to the home owner.

Mr. Cornwell estimates that for every dollar lent for modernization work in the state, five or six is spent in cash. Georgia banks stand fifth in the United States in the number of loans made, in proportion to the number of urban dwellings in the state.

Building permits meanwhile have shown an amazing gain over 1933, with the first 24 days of November registering an increase of 302 per cent over the entire month of November last year, while September and October are up 102 per cent over the same period of 1933.

Mr. Steffen reported that the banks of the nation had already made over $5,000 loans, with each week's report showing an increase over the previous one. "These loans," he said, "represent more than $23,000,000 put into constructive home modernization and repair. The average loan is $241 and the average term 28 months."

Suspect Identified In Grocery Robbery

T. B. Redman, manager of the grocery store at 1026 Highland avenue, N. E., which was robbed Monday afternoon by two armed men who entered the store, held guns on Redman and scooped about $40 out of the cash register, Wednesday afternoon identified W. M. Simpkins, of an Echo street address, as the man who held the gun on him during the robbery, according to Detective J. J. Chester.

Four men participated in the robbery, which was the first of a series of four Monday night. Two men entered the store, another stood at look-out at the door and a fourth man was in the automobile, which Tuesday two men identified as the one for which license had been issued to Miss Agnes Mitchell, also of an Echo street address.

Miss Mitchell Tuesday was charged with disorderly conduct and robbery and bond was set at $1,000, and the hearing set for December 8. She told police, according to Detective Chester, that she and Simpkins were riding in the car Monday afternoon, but that Simpkins alone had the automobile for more than an hour while she was shopping in a downtown department store.

Everett Millican, state senator-elect from Fulton county.

Other special guests will include the members of the county board of education, members of the county commission, and Judge Virgil B. Moore, a former president of the board. W. F. Dykes, principal of North Fulton High school, will preside as toastmaster.

Three Georgia men have been named to offices in the Association of Seaboard Air Line Railway Surgeons, according to dispatches received from Miami Wednesday. Dr. Stuart Roberts, of Atlanta, was named second vice president, and Dr. Frank Eekridge, also of Atlanta, was elected executive committee member. Dr. J. W. Palmer, of Ailey, Ga., was named secretary-treasurer.

Other officers elected by the association were Dr. R. C. Woodard, of Miami, president; Dr. Hunter Sweney, Durham, N. C., first vice president; Dr. C. E. Crosby, Greenwood, S. C., third vice president. Dr. Woodard is a former Georgia state legislator and a native of Ailey, Ga. He is now superintendent of Miami's Jackson Memorial hospital.

GEORGIA WILL HONOR FIRST HIGH SCHOOL

High schools of Georgia have been invited to participate in the celebration of the three hundredth anniversary of the establishment of the first American high school, according to an announcement by Governor Eugene Talmadge. The first high school founded in the United States, the Boston Latin school, still exists.

Governor Talmadge stated that he hopes that high schools all over Georgia will recognize the anniversary celebration with public exercise and ceremonies.

City employees Wednesday were receiving 100 per cent cash for scrip issued by the municipality, representing the salaries of the 4,000 attaches of the government for the latter half of November.

Business Is Urged To Seize Reins in Recovery Drive

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Battle lines were sharply drawn by speakers at the congress of American industry today for private business to capture the lead from government in fighting the way out of the depression. Dr. Virgil Jordan, president of the national industrial conference board, declared "the government is in fact in the hands of an organized mob, and no matter how idealistic its leaders or representatives may be, it is impossible for unorganized industry—an unorganized productive population—to co-operate with a mob if recovery is to be on the basis of private enterprise."

"If these leaders have become afraid of the Frankenstein they have created, if government really wants recovery on the basis of private enterprise, it must shift power."

"It must shift to industry both the terprise, the clear necessity is for co-operation of government with industry, responsibility, and the power to act, and stand by only to see that the essential job of recovery is done, and done well."

Raymond Moley, former Roosevelt administration advisor and now a magazine editor, stressed the point "that it is not congress and it is not the administration that have before them the task of distributing wealth. It is American business. Its job is to get money to work and to move goods and to re-employ workers."

The work of the congress was turned sharply toward that goal as leaders in the conference completed final drafts of the "platform for recovery" which was to be presented tomorrow as a guide for the federal administration in the national recovery program.

Dr. Jordan outlined the present economic situation and said "the problem of recovery remains substantially where it was two years ago."

"To appraise the prospects of recovery on the basis of private enterprise, business, labor and government must face those conditions realistically. They may be summarized in one sentence:

"The free application of labor effort, management initiative and private enterprise to their most productive uses must be promoted by reducing to a minimum group compulsion and sabotage, and government restriction, competition and expropriation."

"Business Brain Trust."

Jordan recommended establishment of a "business brain trust" and agencies of co-operation which can carry industry's recovery plan into action.

"This is the last call for recovery on the basis of private enterprise, and unless it is answered decisively in the next six months, it will be too late," he said.

Moley interpreted the plan of business and industry as one in which you are willing to meet with labor in fair and free contest. In the process of free, orderly and lawful competition, you are willing to take reasonable chances.

"You are certain that the referee in this contest, just as we are all certain, is a great and honest referee—the president. He is the universal choice as the arbiter of our fortunes."

Moley pleaded for a middle-of-the-road action, and he stressed the advisability of applying the test of tolerance to decisions.

He asserted that the New Deal was an effort to save capitalism. "We are improving and repairing and making humbly tolerable the old system; we are not building a new one," he said.

FULTON JURY FREES CARROLLTON YOUTH

Robert Veal, Carrollton youth, was acquitted Wednesday by a Fulton superior court jury of charges of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of 10-year-old Gerald McLaughlin, who was struck by Veal's automobile on Bankhead avenue, September 20.

The jury's verdict, returned after 30 minutes' deliberation, came after an all-day trial in which many character witnesses from Carrollton were introduced and physicians had testified that Veal is subject to sudden attacks of vertigo. One of these attacks came upon him just before the accident happened, according to Veal's statement.

The federal home loan bank board of Washington announced Wednesday that Certificate of Insurance, No. 270, has been issued to the First Federal Savings & Loan Association of Atlanta, formerly known as First Mutual Building & Loan Association.

Savings in insured institutions of this type are now guaranteed up to $5,000 for each account. This procedure is an effort on the part of the government to encourage savers with idle money, or money earning a low rate of interest, to put these funds in savings and loan associations and thereby provide capital for these institutions to continue their lending operations in the building and financing of homes.

George W. West, president of the First Federal Savings & Loan Association of Atlanta, made the following statement:

"We are, indeed, proud to announce to the citizens of this community that our institution has been approved for insurance. By offering savers a government-insured investment, tax free and with a substantial rate of return, we hope to encourage more people to put their savings in our institution. By accumulation of the savings of our local people, we hope to be able to more fully and more completely do the job of caring for the home financing of this community."

COUNTY APPROVES NEW RELIEF PLAN

$25,000 Appropriation Is Made for January; Officials' Salaries Fixed.

The joint city-county relief plan to begin operation January 1 when the federal government will release all unemployed in Fulton county was ratified by the board of county commissioners Wednesday at its last regular meeting for the year, and an appropriation of $25,000 was made on condition that the city appropriate $40,000, the sums to cover estimated expenses of relief for January.

The board of public welfare which will have charge of administering relief to paupers and unemployed of Atlanta and Fulton county consists of W. Eugene Harrington, representing the Better Government commission; Frank H. Neely, manager of Rich's, Inc.; W. B. Mitchell, of Georgia Power Company; Hugh C. Couch, of East Point; J. Sid Tiller, city councilman; Mayor James L. Key, and George F. Long, chairman of the county commission.

The initial payment of $25,000, appropriated so that the board may organize and begin work by the first of the year, was a diverted appropriation of a like amount already made to the FERA for the month of December, and the matter of remitting that amount to the federal government will be deferred over until after the new year. The board also authorized payment to Miss Gay B. Shepperson of $20,000 to cover the county's appropriation for federal relief for November.

A resolution was passed fixing the salaries of department heads at the 1934 figure of $6,000 a year for the sheriff, ordinance tax collector, tax collector and clerk of superior court, and $5,000 for the solicitor-general and the solicitor of city criminal court. The matter of fixing salaries of other employees was left open, it being the consensus of opinion that the matter is one for the new board inasmuch as Dr. W. L. Gilbert, Walter C. Hendrix and Paul S. Etheridge will give place to Ed Almond, Dr. C. Ross Adams and Edwin Johnston on January 1.

Upon resolution of Walter C. Hendrix, chairman of the public works committee, the commission agreed to pay expenses not exceeding $10,000 on a visit to Atlanta by H. Chandler Egan, former British and American amateur golf champion, who will arrive January 21 for an inspection of the old north camp site with a view to giving an opinion as to the feasibility of establishing a golf course as a part of the public park being developed. Egan was recommended to the commission by Bobby Jones as the outstanding amateur golfing landscape architect in the country.

The matter of improving the acoustical properties of all courtrooms in the courthouse was discussed after it had been reported that the treatment recently given the courtroom of Judge E. D. Thomas had proved successful. It was pointed out that the treatment had improved the sound effects in the room so that the difficulties encountered by the lawyers and jurors have been entirely overcome. It is estimated that similar treatment in all the courtrooms will cost $10,000 and the members of the board agreed to recommend the expenditure when the new board is organized.

Women Will Discuss Driver's License Law

The Atlanta League of Women Voters will sponsor a meeting to discuss the advisability of a state-wide license for automobile drivers at 10:30 o'clock Friday in the auditorium of the Tenth Street school. Mrs. R. L. Turman, legislative chairman of the league, will preside. Addressers will be made by William Ward Jr., Jack Strouss, of the Atlanta Motor Club, and Mrs. H. T. Harris, safety chairman of the Fifth District P. T. A.

According to the league and to the Atlanta Motor Club the Atlanta area has a bad rating on automobile accidents, and it is to combat this that the league is sponsoring legislation to require all automobile drivers in the state to have a driver's license.

COTTON EXEMPTION IS LAUDED BY ADAMS

President Roosevelt's proposal to exempt farmers producing no more than two bales of cotton from the restrictions of the Bankhead law was applauded Wednesday by G. C. Adams, Georgia commissioner of agriculture.

"That's splendid," said Adams. "I personally favor a three-bale exemption, but two bales probably is the best we can get. This will take care of the little farmer who, under present restrictions, cannot gin, tax-free, more than 200 or 300 pounds of lint cotton."

"It would be a great calamity to kick out the Bankhead bill at this time. An exemption to two-bale farmers would remove the chief inequality in the bill."

GROUP WILL CONSIDER SEWER DISTRICT PLAN

Establishment of a metropolitan sanitary district to solve the sewerage and drainage problems of Atlanta and contiguous territory will be discussed this afternoon at a meeting to be held in the grand jury room at the Fulton county courthouse.

The better government commission, headed by Frank H. Neely, secretary and general manager of Rich's, Inc., has called the gathering after having approved such action.

Mayor James L. Key and representatives of Fulton and DeKalb governments have been invited to attend. The measure, under present plans, will be presented to the 1935 general assembly for action of that body.

Commission Asked to Probe Louisiana State U. Charges

Resolution Adopted By Executive Committee
Asking Investigation
After Two-Day Sessions.

The commission on higher education was asked Wednesday night in a resolution adopted by the executive committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools to investigate charges that Senator Huey Long is running Louisiana State University.

Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the University of Kentucky, and president of the association, announced the resolution following a night session of the executive committee, and said the commission on higher education, a part of the association, also was asked to investigate conditions at the state normal college at Natchitoches.

Dr. McVey did not say that the conditions at the state normal were similar to those reported from L. S. U. by numerous citizens of Baton Rouge.

The commission on higher learning is composed of 34 members of the association, practically all of whom are here to attend the convention of the association formally opening today.

It was first believed a sub-committee of the executive committee would be appointed, and Dr. McVey had said that investigation into the "charges" likely would require "several months." After the action of the committee Wednesday night he said that there would be no speedy action in the matter.

A proposed change in the constitution of the southern association has met with so much opposition that it probably will not be submitted to the convention, leaders of the movement indicated late Wednesday afternoon.

The association is controlled by two internal organizations, the commission on higher education institutions and the commission on secondary schools, each of which has about 20 members. Their membership is nearly stationary as only one or two new members for each organization can be chosen each year. It was the plan of the radical "left wing" of the convention to make the membership of these bodies more flexible, by having them appointed by a committee elected from each of the states represented in the association.

Such a proposal, if adopted, would disrupt the entire structure of the organization, it was said. It has met with strong opposition and probably will be dropped until a future convention.

The convention proper will hold its first meeting at 2:30 o'clock this morning at the Biltmore hotel. The entire organization of nearly 1,500 members will gather to hear an address by Dean M. E. Haggerty, of the University of Minnesota.

The convention will continue through Friday morning, when officers for the coming year will be elected and a business meeting held. The association will adjourn at noon Friday.

College deans, meeting Wednesday, elected as their officers for the next year Dean Winslow Anderson, of Rollins College, president; Dean J. J. Oppenheimer, of Louisville University, vice president, and Dean M. E. Sadler, of Lynchburg College, secretary-treasurer.

College papers Wednesday were following the lead of the Yale Daily News when it called on the editors of the nation to support the editors of the Reveille, Louisiana State University student publication, in the "censorship" fight centering around Senator Huey Long.

James Tolbert, co-editor of the Emory Wheel, said that his paper would carry an editorial in its Friday edition condemning Long for his interfering with the Louisiana State educational system.

"It is none of Huey's business, anyhow," Tolbert said.

Rupert Howard Pike, editor of the Stormy Petrel, the student organ of Oglethorpe University, said, "We heartily agree with the editors of the Yale Daily News that the cause of the editors of the Reveille is a just one. Censorship by the faculty of a school is sometimes necessary and in any case justifiable, but it is extremely objectionable to have politicians try to run our schools."

The editor of the Agnes Scott Weekly, Miss Mary Boggs, said, "Our paper does not come out again until after Christmas, but you can be assured that if the case is still pending at that time the staff of the Agnesctic will do all in its power to help the Yale daily in its great stand. They seem to be getting Hitlerized," she said when asked about the situation in L. S. U.

Dillon Kalkhurst, editor of the Georgia Tech paper, said that his paper also would support the students of L. S. U. In a bitter denunciation of Senator Long and his politics, he said, "Politicians have no right whatsoever to meddle in the affairs outside of the regime of their official capacities. Their unwelcome work is only done in the heretofore clean field of education. I sincerely hope that L. S. U. will be able to wriggle itself free from its yoke of tyrannical suppression, and revert back to the good old ways where a university was an institution of learning and not a playground for a victim of such extreme Napoleonic egotism."

Mr. Kalkhurst said that his paper would back to the best of its ability the cause of the L. S. U. students.

KENTUCKY JUDGE BRIEFLY PILLORIES THREE DRUNKARDS

PAINTSVILLE, Ky., Dec. 5.—(AP)—After being publicly chained to poles this morning three men who refused to work out fines imposed for drunkenness were allowed to remain in jail here this afternoon after Police Judge Patrick, who had indicated he would continue the punishment until the men decided to work, decided to permit the men to remain in jail.

Judge Patrick said the cold weather caused him to abandon the plan, as he feared the men might catch pneumonia. The men were James Price, 25; William Dills, 25, and Oscar (Blackie) Pelphrey, 22. They were said to have refused to go to work on the streets because they were feeling ill. Judge Patrick, however, instructed the town marshal to chain them to posts when the men did not obtain physician's certificates that they were unable to work.

The men were fastened by chains with 25-pound iron balls attached, to power-line poles in a street near the jail here for several hours on orders of the police judge. After they had been returned to jail for lunch Judge Patrick, who had indicated he would continue the punishment until the men decided to work, decided to permit the men to remain in jail.

Capt. Dolan Speaks Over Radio, Tells of Catching Huge Whale

Speaking over station WGST at 6 o'clock Wednesday night, Captain Mike Dolan, veteran skipper of the Pacific Whaling Company, made a 15-minute address on some of his whaling experiences, particularly in connection with "Colossus," the mammoth 68-ton whale on exhibit in the railway car at Pryor and Wall streets.

The Constitution's special coupon offer enabled 446 boys and girls under 15 to view the enormous marine mammal at half price Wednesday.

Twenty-one hundred and eighty-seven full admissions were also paid, thus swelling receipts for the Big Brother drive sponsored by The Constitution and Atlanta Post No. 1, American Legion.

neither motion pictures glorifying the original act nor the press nor the schools were wholly to blame for the present prevalence of crime, but that "all things converged to make conditions as they are."

"Universities should take the lead in cleaning up this situation by insisting that those properly constituted, not the students, run the schools," he said.

Neff said that economic conditions generally were much better. He supported his belief by saying that people were returning to luxuries—buying automobiles and patronizing amusements.

Although he "didn't know much about it," he said he believed the people of Texas, the largest cotton-producing state, would vote to continue the Bankhead act.

Victims Identified In Island Mystery

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The death of Dr. Friedrich Ritter, German self-exile, and identification of the mummified victims of the Marchena island mystery, were reported by Captain G. Allan Hancock tonight from Charles island, Galapagos archipelago.

The castaway tragedy victims were identified as Alfred Rudolph Lorenz, of Paris, and Charles island, and Trygve Nuggard.

The Baroness Eloise Bonquet De Wagner, self-styled empress of the old convict island, drove Lorenz from the island without water and food before she disappeared. Captain Hancock reported.

WEDDED IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Lila Lee, sometimes called the "hard luck girl" of the movies, was married today in an early-morning elopement and her new husband confided later that she was "very hard to get."

"I had asked Lila several times to say the word," John R. Pine, tall and blonde, told surprised friends at a New York hotel following the Harrison, N. Y., ceremony. "Not until last night did she actually say yes. She's been very hard to get."

Unwilling to risk a change of heart, he hustled the dark-haired actress into a motor car and drove to Harrison, where they were married by a sleepy justice of the peace.

NO PLACE FOR POLITICS

Even should the protests voiced before the executive committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, now in session in Atlanta, over the situation that has arisen at Louisiana State University because of Huey Long's meddling in the affairs of the institution, not bring action by the association, a good end will have been served in emphasizing that nothing but harm can result from the introduction of politics into educational affairs.

It is evident that the outstanding educators in attendance upon the Atlanta meeting are united in condemning the conditions at L. S. U., but it is possible that no formal censure will be uttered, nor the college dropped from the association, because the expulsion of a group of students by the Louisiana institution has been designated as disciplinary action, which is recognized as purely a responsibility of an individual institution. Should any action be taken it will deal with the broader phase of the L. S. U. controversy brought about through the interference of a political leader into the affairs of the college.

The attitude of the educators is voiced in the statement by Dr. R. E. Blackwell, president of Randolph-Macon College, in which he takes the emphatic position that "no college ought to be under the control of politicians. The state must put good men in charge of the educational institutions and trust them in the carrying out of the proper educational policies."

Nothing is more detrimental to youth during the period of mind and character development than the baleful influence of politics. The trickeries and insincerities of unscrupulous politicians are apt to have a lasting and unfortunate effect upon immature minds that will nullify, to a large extent, the efforts of earnest and conscientious educators.

Americans as a whole have the happy habit of dismissing such public pests as Huey Long with a shrug of the shoulder, knowing that their day is never long and seldom leaves bad effects that linger for any considerable period.

It is for this reason that Long is generally regarded as a nuisance, rather than a permanent threat to peace and good government, but this is not true of his inexcusable meddling in the affairs of an educational institution with which he has absolutely nothing to do and of which he is not even an alumnus.

TEN YEARS OF FINE SERVICE

Every resident of Fulton county should take a cordial interest in the testimonial dinner to be given to County Superintendent of Schools Jere A. Wells by the 500 teachers of the system over which he has so ably presided for ten years.

During a decade when the drift of public expenditures, especially in school matters, was almost entirely toward ever-increasing budgets, Superintendent Wells has convincingly demonstrated that efficiency and economy can be made handmaids in public service.

system has experienced its period of greatest expansion during his regime. Many new schools have been constructed and others enlarged to care for the increasing demand upon the physical facilities of the system.

Tomorrow night's dinner is a well-merited recognition of a decade of service in which economy, efficiency and unity of effort have been combined.

THE HIGHWAY CONFERENCE

While the conference just closed in Monroe, La., between southern highway commissioners, truck operators and highway police executives was chiefly for the purpose of considering reciprocity problems between states, the exchange of information and opinions between delegates should be beneficial in the working out of highway problems of all kinds.

Leaders in highway matters told the delegates from the six states taking part in the conference—Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas—that if the states do not solve the troublesome problem of interstate truck and bus transportation it is inevitable that federal regulation will ensue. The problem includes such features as tag recognition, weights, sizes and safety appliances.

Federal regulation of conditions affecting interstate motor carriers has long been urged as the only feasible manner to put an end to the unseemly squabbles in which states in every part of the country have engaged.

Of even more importance to Georgia than the study of interstate motor transportation problems will be the information the representatives of this state have undoubtedly obtained on other highway problems, especially those pertaining to an increased safety on the public thoroughfares.

Few states are as lacking in modern regulations, enacted to fit present-day automobile traffic, as is Georgia. We have no licensing of drivers, whereby the criminal and mentally or physically unfit may be kept from the steering wheel, no highway patrol to keep down reckless driving and our highways are not constructed or marked in keeping with safety precautions.

It is to be hoped that the Georgia representatives at the Monroe conference will bring home with them information that will aid in awakening the general assembly at its next session to the vital necessity of proper steps to safeguard the lives and property of the users of our public thoroughfares.

THE WAY TO END "RACKETEERS"

The imposition by Judge Hathcock in city criminal court of a two-year chain gang sentence on a negro convicted of selling "racket" tickets, shows a certain way to end the nefarious gambling schemes that are taking a large toll daily from the residents of Atlanta.

The racketeers are successful chiefly because their solicitation is so highly organized. There is scarcely a home in Atlanta that is not visited each morning by solicitors, generally negroes, who approach the servants of a household in turn contact their mistresses.

These negroes have, in the lingo, been "cleaning up" and have had little to fear from arrest since they were at first let off by the courts with the payment of fines, which were assumed by the heads of the racket organizations.

Since the imposition of straight chain gang sentences began, many familiar faces have been missing from the back doors of Atlanta's homes, simply because the solicitors were unwilling to run the risk of getting caught and facing a term in the gaol.

A hair cutting machine has been invented in Germany. Now it will be fine if they can only invent a machine to restore hair.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

By Night Into Marrakesh.

Before we could reach the holiest city of Islam in Africa, where no unbeliever was allowed to enter until a few years ago, it had grown suddenly dark without any warning. We flashed on the headlights and we roared through the night over a road where Roman legions marched but the other day, and where Greek and Phoenician merchants came in search of new markets. Here, too, the darkness appeared leading the fighting hosts of Islam to the conquest of the world, which they nearly accomplished. Pagodas and minarets gleamed in the night sky, and the sound of the muezzin's call came from the minaret of the great mosque, and the sound of the muezzin's call came from the minaret of the great mosque, and the sound of the muezzin's call came from the minaret of the great mosque.

Hear Hitler.

In the hotel I rigged up my radio and listened to a tom-tom-way in Germany. The tom-tom on Lake Teich, beyond Timbuctoo, was broadcast yesterday. Marital hymns, crashing cymbals, thunderous, clanging, rattling, and the sound of the muezzin's call came from the minaret of the great mosque, and the sound of the muezzin's call came from the minaret of the great mosque, and the sound of the muezzin's call came from the minaret of the great mosque.

HEALTH TALKS

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

CALLING A QUACK A QUACK.

Folks, you must not believe all the doctors tell you about me, and, doctors, you should not take too literally the things your patients tell you I said.

A California lady tells me a poignant story of her experience in the hospital where she was treated for the diaphragm method of removal of tonsils and, although she had here cut out the tonsils, she found the experience quite unpleasant, still, when the tonsils grew again to a troublesome state she rather welcomed the excuse to have a whiff of this new-fangled diaphragm method, which, according to my column, must be a positive relief for the patient.

But her family physician was sorry he had no diaphragm apparatus. However, he was only too happy to take her to the office of a colleague, who had the necessary equipment.

Yes indeed, with the greatest pleasure this other physician would take care of the patient. Now how would she feel about the work of the new-fangled diaphragm method, which, according to my column, must be a positive relief for the patient.

When she told the doctor that I had said the diaphragm should be practically painless.

Honestly I wouldn't blame the doctor for losing his temper right there. But he preserved his equanimity admirably and got off this rather neat rejoinder: He remarked that if Dr. Brady is so good he would have no time for writing newspaper articles.

You get the implication, dear readers?

I have often used that argument, I hope effectively, in answering queries of correspondents about self-concocted specialists. I remind the correspondents that if the charlatan were really as good as he says he is in his booklets or on the radio, he would keep so busy with practice that he could scarcely find time to canvass the country in quest of credulous customers, or something like that, never dreamed of being so exposed myself.

I must confess I've never treated a tonsil with diaphragm, and probably I never shall. Yet know what, what, and my California colleague's challenge compels me to tell what's what.

My lady goes on to say she was sick in bed for two days after the treatment and unable to drink liquids for three days, also she had a severe crache. She says the one treatment caused two-thirds of the tonsil to disappear.

And that is no doubt the explanation of the unpleasant effects. The inexperienced physician attempted to accomplish too much at the first sitting.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON.

PROGRESS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The government itself learns something new about governing every day. There is, for instance, the case of the federal trade commission investigating the textile mill profits.

As an aftermath of the textile strike the commission was directed by the president to study operations and profits of all textile mills. It failed to get any response to its questionnaires from about 300 firms.

In checking up on the recalcitrants, two commission accountants went to New Jersey, where many small textile firms operate. Some have as few as 6 to 10 looms in an old house somewhere, yet their incomes often run as high as $5,000 to $6,000 a year.

With the co-operation of a textile association, the government agents got reports from about 40 firms, but could do nothing with the others because they kept no books. Informed of this, the commission here wired back:

"Tell them to give us information from their income tax returns."

When the agents went to the association with this proposal, the secretary threw his hands in the air and exclaimed: "Most of these fellows don't file any tax returns!"

It would be worth while to see Treasury Secretary Morgenthau explode when he hears about the textile tax evasion. The mere mention of the phrase "tax evasion" sends him into spasms. Before he gets through he will probably have inspectors out ringing door bells and searching houses to see if the taxpayers are holding out anything.

The tax lawyers here are up in arms about many of his recent rulings, especially as regards estates tax collections. Several decisions are being appealed.

Some of Mr. Morgenthau's suspicions appear to be justified. The little textile operators have not been detected before because they could move from place to place, state to state, before the tax collectors could catch up with them. But the cost to the government of collecting the tax probably will be greater than the amount of the tax.

Also the temptation for internal revenue bureau workers is great. It may come out soon that a clever scheme was worked by one bureau sub-official. He looked over assessments. When he came to a particularly juicy one, he filed it temporarily on the top shelf. Then he scribbled a note to a close friend who is a tax attorney of a sort in New York. The lawyer friend called on the taxpayer and suggested a contingent fee arrangement to get the assessment lowered.

It was a good business while it lasted.

The Borch-Fletcher row about who is going to run the republicanism party was largely encouraged by newsmen to keep things interesting during the dull pre-holiday season. There is a sound basis for it, all right, but as every insider knows the people will take no interest in it. This may be the time to talk about reorganizing but it is not the time to do the reorganizing.

Senator Borah's game is to stir up the animals and bring long-range pressure on Chairman Fletcher in preparation for the ultimate reorganization. To a certain extent, Mr. Fletcher is Mr. Hill and Mr. Hill is the conservative element of the party. They will have to make concessions to Borah in whatever degree he is successful in stirring up the party, but they do not intend to abdicate.

Mr. Borah is still just Mr. Borah. His crowd in the senate has gone democratic, but his wisdom will appeal to party followers who want a change.

The PWA legal division sent around the country some time ago two model laws, urging the state legislatures to pass them. The first was a state revenue bond act authorizing municipalities to issue bonds for sale to the PWA to obtain government funds with which to construct city power plants. A unique provision provided for repayment from the proceeds of the plants. Thus the bonds would not be a further burden on local taxpayers.

The second model law lessened the time limit for advertising new issues to 10 days. This was counted on to speed construction of local power units.

The two models were sent to 30 state legislatures which will act on them this winter, and from the democratic complexion of the legislatures you can guess how they will generally act.

ALUMINUM Attorney-General Cummings, who would like to prosecute Andrew Mellon, the aluminum king, is virtually surrounded by aluminum in his daily life. In fact, the new justice department building is now known as the aluminum palace, a fact which may be attributed to Mr. Mellon.

The huge doors at the various ground-floor entrances are aluminum, as are all corridor doors, window frames, swinging gates between rooms, fixtures, railings and what not.

FAIR ENOUGH

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

S. and 10 Princess

FEELS INJURED. Dec. 5.—Retaining from a long journey abroad, the actress Barbara Hutton Mdivani complained that she had found people hostile and asked, "Why are people so hostile just because one has a little money?"

That is a fair question, although you would think that Mrs. Mdivani, if she really wanted to know why she finds people so hostile, would take a good look at herself and her husband and seek the answer in what she saw.

She would see a pair of rather attractive non-working people with an income which is popularly supposed to amount to $2,000,000 a year who live in a house in the city of New York, and who are surrounded by a crowd of expensive people or a palace in Venice in which to keep cool in the summer. It was just a dandy little house of arousing hostility that they selected recently when they gave themselves a birthday party in Paris and flew the orchestra over from London.

Whole Africa. True enough, under the laws, the money is here, and it is her privilege to feed her dog on caviar as big as dorknobs and his polo ponies to munch the bones of the while millions of other people have to wonder what they are going to use for bread and clothing.

One factor in the hostility is the fact that her fortune is permanently in the public mind and what the five-and-ten-cent store business. Probably the five-and-ten-cent store is the principal source of her income but she is the owner of the store. Whenever she buys the price of a head of expensive stock on which to ride horseback and bat a ball which she can't help thinking of as the five-and-ten-cent store, she is calculating how long how many sales girls on factory hands will have to provide the money in units of one-tenth of a cent.

Millions Came. Conditions in the five-and-ten-cent store may be improved nowadays, no particular thanks to Mrs. Mdivani, but back in the days when the fortune was being made, the five-and-ten-cent store was the most diabolical, pathetic, overworked girls in the country. Then, too, in the five-and-ten-cent store, the girls were shaded so fine that the people who work in the factories which produce five-and-ten-cent goods have to hustle like hell to earn the sort of living.

So, naturally, when people read of a birthday party in Paris which is modestly reported to have cost hardly anything, they can't help thinking of the girls in the five-and-ten-cent store and wondering how long one of these people would have to work for enough money to put just one little champagne which was drunk at the party.

"The party cost hardly anything," said Mrs. Mdivani. I should say not. (Ed. note: Mrs. Mdivani's estimates made by others ranged from $10,000 to $25,000.)

No Use Trying. Well, can you imagine To Explain to Her. a anything more than to try to explain the hostility which Mrs. Mdivani complains of, in terms which will be understood by a young woman who comes back to a household full of poor and desperate people and speaks of $5,000, spent on a party, as "hardly anything?"

The background and attitude of the young woman and the marriage to the Duke of Marlborough and Anna Gould married Count Boni, has been somewhat less than cordial to foreigners.

It is none of the public's business whom an American heiress marries or who she marries, but it is the business of the Duke of Marlborough and Anna Gould married Count Boni, has been somewhat less than cordial to foreigners.

Mr. Mdivani's expert would pipe down all mention of parties costing "hardly anything"; not more than $5,000, and arrange a huge Christmas tree in Madison Square Garden with Mrs. Mdivani graciously handing out presents to the five-and-ten-cent girls and telling them they really get better.

It is amazing what easy, simple gestures will ally hostility. Marie Antoinette made only one mistake and that was to say, "Let them eat cake."

RUTH BRYAN OWEN "SORT OF PREACHER" TO MERCHANT HERE

Ruth Bryan Owen might be America's first woman minister to a foreign country and be recognized in diplomatic circles as envoy extraordinary to the court of Denmark and minister plenipotentiary, but to the manager of one of Atlanta's better known jewelry establishments she's "some sort of a preacher."

The jeweler revealed this when Minister Owen, after purchasing some jewelry, and wishing to pay for it with a check drawn on a New York bank, upon not being immediately recognized, gave as a local reference the name of Russell Bridges, who had handled the arrangements for her speaking engagement here.

The manager called Mrs. Bridges. He told Mr. Bridges that a Mrs. Owen wanted him to identify her. "What Mrs. Owen?" Mr. Bridges asked.

"Well," the manager said, "she gave me a card and I have it in my pocket on it. One word is 'minister.' I guess she's some sort of a preacher."

CROWD FAILS TO SEE F. D. R. AT TERMINAL

President Franklin D. Roosevelt passed through Atlanta late Wednesday afternoon, bound for his desk in Washington after a vacation of more than two weeks at Warm Springs, his "other home" in Georgia.

The president's special train stopped for about 15 minutes at the Terminal station but the nation's chief executive did not show himself to the hundreds or so Atlantans who stood on the platform hoping for a glimpse. For a few minutes after the train stopped the president could be seen deep in conversation in the drawing room of his car, but the four-inch space that disclosed his features was darkened when an attendant pulled the window shade down.

Marvin McIntyre, the president's secretary, was greeted by a group of friends and officials waiting at the official party, including newspaper correspondents, chatters with Atlanta acquaintances.

F. D. R. CONVINCED NEW DEAL POLICY HAS TAKEN ROOT

that is done, the public dollar is available to make jobs and improve conditions.

Before boarding his special train, the president made a last-minute inspection of the civilian conservation corps camp at Warm Springs. He left with the boys feeling that so long as public work projects are to be carried on, the civilian conservation corps, although anathema to the men find their way back into private work as quickly as opportunity affords.

Also on his special train were Frank C. Walker of New York, and Charles Michaelson, director of publicity of the democratic national committee.

The Roosevelt determination to pursue the New Deal was strikingly shown in his declaration to make permanent the experiment to bring about an adjustment of American agricultural production to consumption demands through the acreage control plan.

During his more than two weeks' stay here, the president canvassed almost every agency of government and American life with selected visitors. Principal attention, however, has been focused on the effort to make jobs to replace the relief does. The presidential plan will be unfolded to congress early in January.

Meanwhile Mr. Roosevelt will consult freely with congressional leaders before the opening of the session.

TRADE COMMISSION EXTENDS ACTIVITIES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Investigative activities of the federal trade commission are being considerably extended.

From a staff of fewer than 50 persons a year ago, more than 115 are now inquiring into the possibility of illegal acts in industry and business, both in behalf of the public and in enforcing the anti-trust and trade commission laws.

This is but one section of a wide front of related activities. An official familiar with such work in the government said that almost every agency has augmented its police force.

A permanent staff for the investigation of violations of the oil code, and for supervision of the department's other work. The searching branches of the department of justice, of the internal revenue bureau and other agencies also are larger.

More departments have helped establish these offices. The securities and exchange commission has about 100 men trained to find and catch stock agencies which the Home Owners Loan Corporation and other lending bodies had to establish corps of inspectors.

The clearing, generally speaking, is economic in nature. Except for activities against smugglers, bootleggers, kidnappers and such, most of the detecting is done to catch tax violators or violators of other of the business laws, financial manipulators and so on.

A permanent NRA probably will use the trade commission's investigative force, with the continuing development of the more or less private stock agencies which the commission themselves create. Evolution of labor law also probably will necessitate a sort of labor police.

Woman's Body Found Mutilated in Trunk

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—A mutilated body of a woman about 40 was found in a trunk here today.

The body was removed to the county morgue. The discovery was made by a woman who was cleaning out a trunk in a rooming house. The body was found in a trunk in a rooming house.

A bloodstained saw was found in the trunk. The floor of the rooming house was blood-spattered.

New Evidence Claimed Against Hauptmann

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Dec. 5.—Prosecutor Anthony W. Haneck Jr. today said that additional evidence found in the Bronx, New York, city, where Richard Hauptmann, Lindbergh kidnap-suspect lived, "Hauptmann in the chair."

Haneck declined to reveal the nature of the evidence. He said state police conferred with District Attorney Samuel Foley, of Bronx county, yesterday, but Foley said today he knew of no new evidence.

Haneck said that they had sufficient evidence to convict Hauptmann of murder.

SCHEDULE CHANGED FOR DELTA AIR LINE THROUGH ATLANTA

Inauguration of a new air mail and passenger schedule to connect Atlanta with Augusta and way points and with Birmingham and Dallas and intermediate points was announced Wednesday.

The new schedule will be in effect Saturday and will include Atlanta as an overnight stop for east-bound and west-bound planes. Delta Air Corporation announced the contract. The new schedule follows:

Going (EASTERN TIME) Returning
2:35 pm Lv. Atlanta, Ga. Ar. 11:35 am
4:45 pm Lv. Atlanta, Ga. Ar. 11:35 am
4:57 pm Lv. Atlanta, Ga. Ar. 11:35 am
5:27 pm Lv. Atlanta, Ga. Ar. 11:35 am

Coming (WESTERN TIME)
7:45 am Lv. Atlanta, Ga. Ar. 5:15 pm
9:00 am Lv. Atlanta, Ga. Ar. 5:15 pm
10:30 am Lv. Atlanta, Ga. Ar. 5:15 pm
11:35 am Lv. Atlanta, Ga. Ar. 5:15 pm

There have been no reason, sir. You may have a suspicion that there was something under cover and sinister. The facts are that this shipment of goods which have been some correspondence) was not made.

It was not made because the contract was not closed," said Mark. "We were waiting for a letter from the back door, we could have got lots of business," interposed Cassin.

New evidence also, it is presented that the Versailles treaty forbidding it to make, import or export arms, and the fact that the British firm founded by the donor of the famous peace prize, Senator Vandenberg, republican, Michigan, was guilty of "winking" in the rearming of Germany.

In addition, letters and other documents which found a plot in the record showed that the rearmament of the reich had been going on with the knowledge of European chancellors and of this country's state department.

Diplomats of various nations made no objection, it was asserted, because through the act of his munitions of other countries, Germany was better able to meet its huge reparations bill, which it then, 1925 to 1930, was still paying.

SEARCH FOR ULM STILL FRUITLESS

Thirty-Four U. S. Planes Comb Seas, Together With Surface Craft.

HONOLULU, Dec. 5.—(AP)—New hope of finding Flight Lieutenant C. T. P. Ulm and his two companions aboard the Pacific was born here tonight and the search by air and sea shifted to the southwest of Honolulu.

A technical description of Ulm's plane, wirelessly heard from San Francisco, convinced the searchers it could float on the ocean for considerable time.

Twenty naval planes, 14 army planes and 28 naval surface craft engaged in the great hunt for Ulm and George Littlejohn, co-pilot, and J. Leon Skilling, navigator, of the Star of Australia.

The search will continue so long as there is hope of finding the plane, said Rear Admiral Harry B. Yarnall, who is in command of the search. The 28th hour elapsed since 9 a. m. (3 p. m. eastern standard time) Tuesday when Ulm vanished "on water" near S. O. S.

The sphere of the search shifted to the southwest of the island of Oahu, on which is situated Honolulu, after a fruitless hunt to the northeast which took planes and ships as far as 400 miles from the islands. More than 30,000 gallons of gasoline were consumed by military planes engaged in the search.

Surface naval vessels backtracked the course Ulm took after the Star of Australia flew briefly from Oahu, O. H., into the late afternoon sky Monday and neared the islands on the first leg of a projected flight to Australia.

Naval vessels and the coast guard cutter Itasca were so spaced that they could not "fail to sight the plane if it was aloft," Admiral Yarnall said.

Captain Larry Doetsner, master of the steamer Maliko, advanced the theory the Star of Australia crashed into the sea southwest of Honolulu.

Captain Doetsner expressed belief Ulm mistook the freighter Maliko for the liner President Coolidge early Tuesday when he radioed the Coolidge "I am about over you now." At that time the Maliko was 250 miles from Honolulu, about 150 miles nearer than the Coolidge.

If this theory was correct, Ulm flew over the islands in the darkness and later was reported in the conclusion which led him to believe the plane, as he reported by radio, before he crashed.

Lieutenant Paul Foley, naval flier, scouting 300 miles southwest of Honolulu, reported sighting a "drifting object." He later reported that the object was not the plane.

NEPHEW OF UPSHAW VICTIM OF ROBBER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Lucius C. Uphaw, nephew of former Representative Uphaw, of Georgia, was held up and robbed of $40 last night while walking near the library of congress.

Shortly after the robbery, Elmer E. Phillips, 20-year-old negro, was arrested near the house of representatives office building. Police reported he had in his possession a pistol and $40.

Very Low Holiday Fares

California So. Arizona

Each winter the SANTA FE takes a multitude of people to California and Arizona. Some few must go; the vast majority go because they want to go.

What draws these many to California and Arizona, in the winter?

They are on the Trail of the Sun.

They do not like cold, or thick wraps, or to be shut in from the out-of-doors. They seek mellow warmth, and that change from accustomed things that is so true a rest. They go to play—along the blue sea, in the lovely hills, among the desert oases of a land that was made to enjoy out-of-doors, all winter long.

There are helpful SANTA FE booklets on California, Arizona, Grand Canyon, Indian-detours, Dude Ranches, all available on request.

Through Santa Fe Pullmans from Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City and New Orleans.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON, World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Limiting the Penalty

In rubber bridge when a doubled contract is being played which surely must go down, the declarer in choosing his line of play must make every effort to keep his penalty down to as few tricks as possible. Unless the play for the smallest possible set seems too unlikely, it is the one which should usually be adopted, even though if a very bad unforeseen break makes it go wrong the set may go pretty high.

The reasoning of the good declarer in match point duplicate games should be somewhat different. If, for instance, he is at a sacrifice contract which must be set, his primary interest should be to try to keep the penalty down so that it will not exceed the number of points which the opponents could score for their game.

In other words, if the opponents have a vulnerable game and can thus score between 600 and 650 points, the non-vulnerable sacrifice need not care particularly whether he is defeated one, two or three tricks, so long as he does not go down four. If he goes down four tricks or 700 points, he has exceeded the value of the opponents' game and will almost surely set a bottom score.

This principle of playing for a limited set is shown in South's play of the hand below:

East dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

The bidding: (Figure after bid refers to numbered explanatory paragraph.)

East South West North
1♥ 1♠ 2♥ Pass
4♥ 4♠ Pass 4♠ (1)
Dbl. Pass Pass Pass

1—A most unusual and ordinarily unwise bid by North. The only excuse for North's sacrifice bid was the fact that his side was not vulnerable and the opponents were in a duplicate game with match point scoring. North had been faring badly and decided to gamble on a top-score. He knew he was making a sacrifice bid which practically no other team would make, and, assuming the opponents could make their four hearts, that four spades doubled, if not down more than 450, would bring him a top-score.

South was thus the declarer at a four-spade doubled contract which was decidedly not of his own choice. After the opening lead of the heart ace was made and the dummy went down, South stopped to count tricks. He immediately noticed that if both the spade and diamond suits broke three and two he could get out for a one-trick set or 100 points, losing only the two club tricks, one spade trick and one heart trick. However, South further saw that if the heart suit were continued his trump hold would immediately be shortened, and if either or both of his own suits did not break, he would eventually run out of trumps and go down at least four tricks—more than the value of the opponents' vulnerable game.

Knowing almost for a certainty that he and his partner had arrived at a sacrifice contract which practically no other team in the room would get to, South decided to give up any thought of playing for down one or down two, and to play the hand as safely as possible to get out for a three-trick penalty or 450 points. He knew the minus 450 on the board would bring him as good a score as minus 100 or minus 250, as practically every other team in the game sitting North and South would be minus from 620 to 680.

South, therefore, proceeded to trump the second heart lead and immediately shifted to diamonds, purposely avoiding touching the trump suit and merely attempting to win seven tricks.

He won the diamond king in dummy and now led another low diamond. Whether East trumped or not was immaterial, for the minimum play from this point on, with its many possible variations, need not be recounted. Even hasty analysis shows that with the declarer never touching the trump suit and thus losing valuable tempo on the hand, he cannot be prevented from taking seven tricks—either six in trumps and one in diamonds, or five in trumps and two in diamonds, or four in trumps and three in diamonds, depending upon just when the East plays ruffs and whether or not East himself shifts to trumps.

South went down 450, and, just as he had reasoned, he was next to top on the board, losing only to a team which in some inexplicable manner had gotten a plus. Had South played this hand for the minimum set by immediately drawing trumps, he would soon have run out of trumps and would eventually have gone down four tricks or 700 points for a bottom score.

Heavy Toll Feared In Honduran 'Quakes'

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Dec. 5.—(AP)—First official reports of death and injury in Honduras' ghastly earthquakes came tonight from western border areas, seat of famous Maya ruins.

Almost total destruction of the town of Copas, where 7,000 people lived, and burial alive of an old woman in the tumbling debris of her home were described in reports finally reaching the capital over crippled communications systems.

HARRISON QUILTS AFTER LONG TENURE

For perhaps better than any historian, a leader in the social and religious life of Atlanta longer than anyone of the present day and perhaps longer than anyone who went before him, and longer than most of them who are to come after him.

Deputy for 13 Years.

Miss Blackley, who has been Mr. Harrison's deputy for 13 years and who has carried on the work of the court for nearly two years during which Mr. Harrison has been ill, will be sworn into office at 9 o'clock Saturday morning by Chief Justice Russell before other members of the court and the court of appeals.

In announcing the retirement of Mr. Harrison, Chief Justice Russell made public a letter from the clerk to the court and also a letter he had written the retiring official in behalf of the tribunal.

The chief justice also paid a high tribute to the new clerk, the first of her sex ever to hold such an office in Georgia and one of the few women supreme court clerks in the United States, when he said "there can be no incident of more historic interest to Georgians than this deserved elevation of Miss Blackley, the granddaughter of Chief Justice Logan E. Blackley, chief justice of all judges, past and present and prospective."

Letter From Chief Justice.

"The letter of the chief justice (Mr. Harrison) follows:

"Honorable Z. D. Harrison, Clerk, Supreme Court, Atlanta, Ga.

"Dear Mr. Harrison:

"Your letter of November 24 brought to each and every member of the supreme court feelings of regret and sorrow which mere language is inadequate to express—poignant regret that your physical condition should be such as to determine you not to ask for re-election as clerk of the supreme court at the expiration of your present term—unfeigned sorrow at the severance of your relationship with the court after a most notable and outstanding service for a period of 66 years. Happily, your anxiety as to your declining health is no longer assuaged by the evident rapid improvement of your physical condition in the last few weeks. We therefore decline to decline to serve us longer, permit me, in behalf of the entire court, to say that you carry with you into your retirement the undivided affection of the entire people of your native state, their highest respect for your culture, for your stainless integrity, and your Christian character."

"Two-thirds of a century of faithful service to the state upon your part glows in the light of the golden memories of the long roll of judges whom you have assisted in the administration of justice. Long may your service to the bench and the bar be remembered, and sweeter still will be the memory of the high hopes that with relief lawyers have befriended, whom you will not be forgotten. But it will not be possible for any group to admire you more or love you better than the present members of the supreme court of Georgia, in whose behalf and at whose instance I am writing this letter."

"Cordially and sincerely your friend, RICHARD B. RUSSELL SR., Chief Justice, Supreme Court."

Mr. Harrison's letter announcing his retirement follows:

November 24, 1934.

"To the Honorable Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court of Georgia:

"Because of my infirmities incident to old age, and also to a long-continued illness, I have become disqualified for further service as clerk of the supreme court and feel that I should not ask for re-election on the expiration of my present term."

"It is with profound regret that I sever the connection of 66 years that has been the privilege of my life, and of the great and good men who have honored the supreme court of this state in those years; and in retiring I wish to express my appreciation of the considerate kindness manifested for me by you, the members of the present bench.

"With highest esteem, Z. D. HARRISON."

Atlanta Church Leader.

In addition to his public career Mr. Harrison is widely known for his church activities, being one of the oldest and one of the most prominent members of the Protestant Episcopal church, not having missed a triennial general convention of his church since 1883, fifty-one years ago.

He has been a member of St. Philip's cathedral almost since it was founded. He was a vestryman from 1876 to 1880. He was senior warden at St. Luke's from 1883 to 1923 and has been an attendant at the diocesan conventions since 1877 and a member of the diocesan standing committee since 1880.

Mr. Harrison was born November 26, 1842, his letter of retirement being written on his sixtieth birthday anniversary. He was born in Randolph county but in his early childhood his family moved to Milledgeville, the old home being directly across the street from the state capitol.

As he played in his yard young "Zed" Harrison could look across the street and see the great men of Georgia of that day hurrying in and out of the capitol and there was born a desire to be a servant of the state, a desire which reached fulfillment in 1888 and achievement in the 66 years which followed.

Father Was Official.

His father before him was a public servant. He was George Washington Harrison, a member of the house and the senate and Georgia's secretary of state in the memorable years of the "War Between the States." Even before he came to Atlanta, before the capitol itself came to Atlanta, young Harrison started his public career as an assistant to his father after the war had broken off his studies at Old Oglethorpe, then located at Midway, Ga.

At a junior at Oglethorpe where he was forced to put aside his books and carry on in his father's office in the stead of a man who had gone forth to fight. The new Oglethorpe did not forget him for in 1830 he was called back by President Thornwell Jacobs and the university continued his studies in his eightieth year, an honorary degree of bachelor of arts.

He always retained his interest in Oglethorpe. He was a graduate of the college of his church, the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., where he has been a member of the board of trustees since 1880 and a member of the board of regents for many years, being the oldest living member and the oldest member in point of age of his father's alma mater.

He received his law degree from the University of the South in 1894.

Continued Study of Law.

Despite the fact that he was forced to abandon Oglethorpe, Mr. Harrison continued his study of the law and was admitted to the bar in Wilkinson county in 1868, when he was 24 years of age. Although not engaged in the general practice of the law, he retained his close connection with the legal fraternity through his work for the court and was one of the organizers and charter members of the Georgia Bar Association, which was formed in 1884 and by which he was elected an honorary life member in 1918 and of which he served as president in 1922.

Mr. Harrison's health has been failing for the last two years but even so last winter he was able to visit in Chicago where he went to visit physicians and to see what he could of the World's Fair.

He has lived in the Druid Hills where he will continue to reside with his daughter.

CANNON RAPS RULING ON MILITARY TRAINING

DATON, Ohio, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon Jr. tonight asserted the United States supreme court's decision upholding compulsory military drill at land grant universities was "a gross violation of the strength of genuine conscientious objection to war."

He expressed his opinion as the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America adopted a resolution directing the church movement against compulsory drill toward state legislatures, congress and university authorities.

The resolution stated the supreme court's decision had pointed out the privilege of conscientious objectors against bearing of arms arises not from the constitution but from the act of congress. It asked:

"That congress adopt legislation extending to native-born conscientious objectors the exemption from military training in civil educational institutions."

"That pending such action by congress, the governing bodies of the institution in question, wherever such action is in accordance with state statutes, take the initiative in placing military training on a voluntary basis."

"That state legislatures adopt measures providing that all land grant colleges place military training on a voluntary basis."

"Such action, according to a recent ruling by the United States attorney-general, would be wholly consonant with the federal legislation under the terms of which land grant colleges were originally instituted."

LAXITY CHARGED IN FULTON RELIEF

lance is exercised to prevent injustices in relief and constant changes are being made when it is evident there are faults to be corrected," Miss Shepperson ordered the inquiry on complaint of the Citizens' League of Fulton county, headed by Dr. Edwin Scott.

Miss Mawer, in her report, disclosed "looseness" in handling cash by the county relief organizations, poor organization and inside use of federal aid to the needy, but added that conditions have shown a steady improvement within the past several months.

Dunnaway Charges Graft.

In a statement, signed and sworn to by the defendant, and read in court by former Governor Clifford Walker, attorney for Dunnaway, sensational charges of graft and intimidation in the county relief administration are made. Dunnaway, declaring his innocence, charges that relief employees needed as witnesses refuse to talk as the result of intimidation by relief officials, who had warned employees they would be subject to dismissal.

Dunnaway says his predicament, which he charges is "frame-up" and effort to "railroad" him into the penitentiary for thefts for which he is not responsible, is due solely to Miss Adams M. Barker, relief administrator, and Miss Charlotte Donnell, assistant administrator.

Miss Barker, when informed of the charges Wednesday, said she would not care to make a statement "as the state is conducting the trial."

Miss Mawer's report on the county relief organization read:

"The system was wide open to irregularities. Cash vouchers were written by the visitors (relief workers) when the money was not delivered, and later destroyed or left in their desks. As there was no serial number on the voucher it was impossible to keep track of them." The report said, however, the money was disbursed in such a manner that stray vouchers could not be cashed.

Cash Handling "Lax."

"There is no question about the laxity of handling the cash funds," Miss Mawer's report on the county relief organization read.

"The system was wide open to irregularities. Cash vouchers were written by the visitors (relief workers) when the money was not delivered, and later destroyed or left in their desks. As there was no serial number on the voucher it was impossible to keep track of them."

The report said, however, the money was disbursed in such a manner that stray vouchers could not be cashed.

Method "Tightened."

Since October, Miss Mawer said, the method of cash handling had been materially "tightened."

She declared relief given in the county as "more than 50 per cent below the standard minimum for Atlanta along local lines."

Miss Barker, the administrator, the report reads, has an overwhelming job but has met her difficulties with fortitude and developed her organization along logical lines.

Miss Mawer's report to Hopkins includes an alleged investigation of Dr. Scott's residence and activities in Atlanta since 1925. She states that he was on the CWA relief roll at one time and that he was "very difficult to deal with" while on the relief roll.

The "Citizens' League of Fulton County" was investigated, the report states, and doubt is expressed that it had any influence or that it still is in existence.

Miss Shepperson, the state administrator, is described as "most sincere in her desire to discover any sign of irregularity in relief to citizen clients."

Relief Work Lauded.

Miss Shepperson, following issuance of the Mawer report in Washington, Tuesday afternoon gave out a statement in which she commended the Fulton county relief administration. She pointed out that constant vigilance was maintained to prevent injustices in relief, and that constant changes are being made when it is evident that there are faults to be corrected.

Miss Shepperson said that she had asked for an investigation of charges in connection with the administration of relief in Fulton county on complaint of Dr. Edwin Scott, head of the Citizens' League of Fulton county. "I am gratified," she said, "to learn that my belief at the time was sustained that an impartial investigation would give the administration in Fulton county a clean bill of health and prove that most of the complaints were unfounded."

"Any suspicion of irregularities is always met with a thorough investigation on the part of the administration, and I am happy to say that such instances with foundation of fact have been few and petty in nature, and have been dealt with summarily."

In reference to the Dunnaway charges read in superior court, Miss Shepperson said the indictment of Dunnaway was the result of an investigation made by a trained investigator and that the findings had been turned over to the office of the solicitor-general.

Dunnaway Put on Stand.

The Dunnaway statement said that many other relief employees had access to the cash accounts and records and that some of these had an even better opportunity than he to misappropriate relief funds.

Some relief employees, the statement said, are known to be gamblers and have paid off their gambling debts with money elicited from the relief administration.

Assistant Solicitor J. Walter LeCraw immediately placed Dunnaway on the witness stand and in response to questions said that he made the statement read to the court and had sworn to it.

He was asked to name the persons who had issued orders for relief employees not to discuss his case with him, but he did not name them. He said those to whom he had tried to talk, had advised him of the existence of such an order.

Between 40 and 50 relief officials and employees, summoned as witnesses, were in court. Superior Judge C. V. Worrell, of Cuthbert, presiding, ruled the motion for postponement, but because of another case on trial ahead of it, the Dunnaway case was set over until this morning.

U. S. INVESTIGATION FINDS "LOOSENESS" IN SYSTEM

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—A federal investigation into Fulton county (Atlanta, Ga.) relief system today disclosed "looseness" in handling cash, poor organization and inadequate federal aid to the needy.

The probe was instigated by Miss Gay E. Shepperson, Georgia relief administrator, after criticism of its methods by the Citizens' League of the county.

Miss Helen C. Mawer, regional transient director, who conducted the investigation, in her report to Administrator Hopkins, made public today, said, however, that conditions had shown steady improvement within the past several months.

"There is no question about the laxity of handling the cash funds," Miss Mawer's report read.

"The system was wide open to irregularities. Cash vouchers were written by the visitors (relief workers) when the money was not delivered, and later destroyed or left in their desks. As there was no serial number on the voucher it was impossible to keep track of them."

Textile Organizer Is Indicted at Macon

MACON, Ga., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Solicitor-General Charles H. Garrett tonight said J. Ralph Gay, an organizer for the United Textile Workers of America, had been indicted by the Bibb county grand jury on 18 counts, all predicated on previous charges involving alleged textile strike activities.

Gay is under $5,000 bond, the solicitor said, on previous charges brought at the time of his arrest during the recent textile strike disorders.

Indictments returned today, the solicitor said, charged Gay with violating sections of the code relating to threatening persons and preventing them from going to work, hindering owners and managers from operation of their plants, and another section dealing with rioting.

The solicitor said the indictments had not been presented in open court and no date had been set for trial.

PERSONS SAYS CRIME RAMPANT IN AMERICA

BARNESVILLE, Ga., Dec. 5.—The regular December term of superior court has opened in Lamar county and the grand jury elected R. A. Stafford foreman, with James Ivey clerk.

Judge Orden Persons, in his charge to the grand jury, stated that the most important question before the people of the United States today is the suppression of crime. He said organized criminals are more numerous than ever before and the United States suffers the existence of more criminals than any other nation.

He called upon the grand jury to enforce the laws against the use of intoxicating beverages, stating that their immediate use caused 90 per cent of all crimes on the court's docket. He pleaded for sobriety, stating that the only antidote for inebriety is total abstinence.

Judge Persons also called upon the grand jury to enforce the violation of the motor vehicle law.

Major Melton said in his speech that the "only 'ism' that should flourish in this nation is Americanism."

10 Miles of Pine Trees May Line Augusta Sts.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 5.—(AP)—The federal government might be asked to help beautify Augusta. A plan is being fostered by the chamber of commerce and the district forester's office to plant 10 miles of pine trees on each highway touching Augusta.

Under the plan advanced, every artery would be literally an avenue of pines.

Mayor R. E. Allen Jr. has received a letter from L. S. Moody, secretary of the Augusta chamber of commerce, suggesting that this be made a project to be submitted for FERA approval.

The idea was advanced, also, by Charles N. Elliott, district state forester.

It is estimated that 10,000 trees would be used.

HARDWOOD HEADQUARTERS AFTER VOTE ON PRICES

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Lee Robinson, of Mt. Vernon, Ala., today said he resigned last night as president of the Hardwood Manufacturers' Institute because of the board of directors' vote to drop cost protection prices.

"The wage scale clause in the code without controlled production and cost protection prices can not be enforced," Robinson said. "The small mills will be able to ignore the 24-cent-an-hour scale and the result will be that the large mills will have to carry the load."

Banded Quail Is Found 500 Miles From Home

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 5.—(AP)—A banded quail 500 miles from its original home at Fedge Field, Alberta, Ala., was killed near here Tuesday by M. L. Mooney, of Monticello.

Finishing of a silver band on the quail identified it as having come from Alabama. Mooney and other local sportsmen were surprised to find a quail so far from home, as the birds are not ordinarily considered as migratory.

SOME PHASES OF NRA LAUDED BY ANDERSON

MACON PUBLISHER SPEAKS BEFORE STUDENTS AT MERCER.

MACON, Ga., Dec. 5.—(AP)—W. T. Anderson, Macon publisher, said re-union or minimum wages to industry, fixed working hours, and elimination of child labor as provided by NRA are important to the welfare of the American people, in addressing students and the faculty of Mercer University today.

The publisher likewise criticized certain provisions of the NRA, principally the price-fixing provisions.

"Price control has no place in American business," he said, adding that it discourages enterprise, makes for inefficiency and generates insolence. He said the buying public "resents it and whatever is gained in one direction is lost in the other."

"Our textile industry particularly, because it was a case of dog eat dog. If the Macon mills paid decent wages to labor, then the Alabama mills could cut these wages and underbid the Macon mills, thus dragging down the wage level and reducing working people to a minimum."

Higher salaries, he said, will put labor on a higher platform by increasing the standard of living.

"You must remember that the person who is not making a living will have to make a living off you in the form of taxation. This is of particular importance to the people in the south. We have more people down here who need help than any other part of the country."

Anderson spoke at the chapel hour today on the university campus.

80 Divorces Are Granted In One Day at Savannah

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Eighty divorces were granted here yesterday in superior court in the first day of a four-day session for which some 275 divorce cases are scheduled.

Judge John Rourke, presiding, warned one attorney that a divorce would not be granted merely on evidence presented in the form of an interrogatory, and advised the attorney that his client must put in a personal appearance at the court.

DIVORCED WIFE ASKS $30,000-A-YEAR INCOME

RENO, Nev., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Francis V. duPont, member of the wealthy and socially prominent Wilmington, Del., family, is asked to provide his divorced wife, Katharine Clark duPont, and their three children with an annual income of not less than $30,000, in a suit secretly filed here November 20.

Mrs. duPont, it became known today, asked the Reno court to annul a property settlement agreement she made with her husband in New York city July 3, 1931, and to modify her Reno divorce decree, granted December 14, 1931, so as to assure her the $30,000 income.

SKILLED LABOR LACK FEARED BY ENGINEERS

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—An optimistic but critical view of the future was taken today by the Society of Mechanical Engineers in its report of progress in management, presented at the annual meeting of the society.

A labor scarcity already has developed in the skilled trades of tool and machine building and maintenance, the report found, and a modest business pickup would leave many capital goods industries unable to find competent men.

The skilled labor shortage is due, the report said, largely to the fact that virtually no apprentices have been trained over the past five years.

NO FRENCH TROOPS WILL GO TO SAAR

BRITAIN OFFERS TO POLICE AREA DURING JANUARY 13 PLEBISCITE.

GENEVA, Dec. 5.—(AP)—France today said flatly she will send no troops into the Saar basin—and Great Britain promised to help police the territory during the forthcoming plebiscite if Adolf Hitler is willing.

Thus, with spectacular suddenness, the League of Nations council found apparent solution of the problem that brought it into extraordinary session, the "matter of keeping the peace in the little European ' tinder-box ' that votes January 13 to rejoin Germany, join France or remain under the League."

If the German reichsfuehrer assents—and Geneva tonight waited anxiously to hear from Berlin—an international army will march into the Saar before the plebiscite to assure "fair and free" balloting.

Through Foreign Minister Pierre Laval, wearing his ever-present white cravat, France today made her astounding renunciation of the right to send troops into the Saar.

"We can not participate in an international force," Laval said, because Germany can not participate.

Captain Anthony Eden, British representative, in an address that set the League seat abuzz with comment, proposed that an international army be dispatched to the basin before the plebiscite.

"His majesty's government," Eden explained, "gives the greatest importance to the view that prevention is better than cure."

France Considering Large Loan to Soviet

PARIS, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Paul Bastid, president of the foreign affairs committee of the chamber of deputies, told the committee today that the French cabinet was considering making a large loan to soviet Russia.

The loan, which would go through the bank with the French government's guarantee, was regarded as possible only if the soviet agreed to some form of settlement of the czarist Russian debts, which in 1925 were estimated at more than 15,000,000,000 francs (about $900,000,000 at today's quotation).

TWO WIN ACQUITTAL IN CAVE-IN DEATH

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Ralph Whisler, of Harrisburg, and Jacob Loy, of Waynesboro, were acquitted today of charges of involuntary manslaughter in the deaths of three men in the cave-in of a sewer ditch last July at Waynesboro.

The prosecution charged that the cave-in resulted from failure to support the ditch with timbers.

"She will like it, I think. She likes quiet things. And she can be married anywhere. I think we'll be married there. It's a little place up the river. I spotted it the other afternoon."

Later he told Rhoda he had a surprise for her. She smiled and looked pleased, for she had set her hand to the plough and did not intend to falter.

He drove her out of London, beyond Reading, to the village of Landkey-on-Thames. On the outskirts of the village, all by itself, stood a little thatched cottage with all the traditional picturesque qualities of a garden.

"I've taken this for three months," he announced. "If you don't like it we can dump it."

"But I think it's perfectly delightful!" said Rhoda. She would have said the same whatever he had shown her. It did not matter where he intended to take her.

"It's very quaint, as you see," he said, "just a single room downstairs, and one over it with a tiny dressing room upstairs."

"I love small things," said Rhoda. She had discovered a formula of amiability. You just agreed enthusiastically with anything anybody said.

"We've nowhere to stow a domestic staff," he told her. "But there's a woman who lives about a quarter of a mile away who will come in and do the housework for a few shillings."

She agreed that this would be an ideal arrangement.

"I don't know what you feel about church, but I always find it rather depressing. I vote we use the powers that license gives us and have a parson to perform the ceremony in here for us."

"Yes, that would be much better!" If that dreadful deed had to be done, the farther it was away from a church the better.

"Little girl, I do hope you will be happy here."

She must remember not to lash out when Stornack looked at her. He seemed not to mind when she did not kiss him back.

It was not until Sunday that she wrote to Colin and told him her letter with a protestation of her undying love, and then.

You will have heard that Jarrold has decided to leave his job. There is no hope. I have been in a sort of a daze ever since he told me, but I am able to face the fact, as you are, that we have had our last chance.

In twenty years we shall not be the people we are now—a prematurely old man and woman with nothing but the past to live on. No dearer love, I have made the decision. There is neither honor nor ease in dragging Jack down into our own misery. I have decided to go through a form of marriage with Stornack. I shall not tell Jack because I would immediately give himself up in order to prevent my making this sacrifice instead of waiting until the end of the month as he promised. I shall send him a telegram when it is done. That is my decision. That is what I think I ought to do and what I shall do unless you forbid me. For I am yours, Colin.

Jack Caermann was not able to pass the letter to Colin until Thursday. When Colin had read Rhoda's letter it produced no nerve storm. It produced nothing but a hard laugh.

"No," he ejaculated. He read the letter again and the hardness vanished.

"Poor darling! But you're quite right. This would have been the only decent thing to do in the circumstances."

The next day, while at labor, Jack Caermann told him.

"All fixed. Same drill as before. We change over just before my release at two-thirty. You will be able to get to London about seven o'clock. Shall I warn Rhoda to stand by?"

"No," said Colin firmly. "There might be a hitch and it would upset her too much. I'll pick her up myself on the telephone."

Thursday! A morning's work in the vegetable garden which surely must be the most dignified of jobs in the whole world. Back to cells for dinner at midday. It was necessary to swallow the food for there was no other means of concealing it. To have left it about would have been to incur the other warner's attention. And while he was impersonating Colin it was very necessary that Jack Caermann should not attract particular attention. They were of the same build and the same physical type, but they did not resemble each other as twins.

Colin finished the food and waited. This was really the worst part of the whole thing. At long last came the signal—a double cough from Warder Caermann that meant "Get ready, Colin took off boots and clothes."

"What have you not there on the window sill, eighty-seven?"

"Only my wristwatch and all."

"And what has it not under it?"

As on previous occasions, Jack Caermann leaped up the stairs while Colin buttoned himself into the warner's tunic.

Then the final warner's speech by Caermann.

"I've had trouble enough with you, eighty-seven. Hardly a week passes but I've to open this door for something or other. Just mind out what you do!"

But it was Colin Briarley who stepped out into the corridor and locked the cell door.

The relief came a couple of minutes later. As before everything worked like clockwork. As he made his way to Carmichael Villa Colin thought for a moment of the pitcher that went often to the well.

"Well, it hasn't broken this time and that's all that matters!" he mused as he entered the little house.

Ten minutes later he had dumped the warner's uniform and was once more a smart young man about town to look at.

"Jack, old boy, this is where I abuse your hospitality! But you'll know eventually why I'm drunk!"

He went down stairs to the sitting room, opened all the drawers, then rummaged through them and shut them again.

"I know he's not it somewhere. I wonder where he keeps it. I'll try under the bed!"

Upstairs again—to drag from under the bed, first a trunk and then a military valise. The valise was locked on a padlock. Rhoda looked at it and again with a poker. With the poker he forced the padlock. Inside was Caermann's riotous "sau officer of the R. A. F."—a young man about town, still entitled to wear on "active occasions."

And in the pocket of Caermann's valise—his service revolver.

Colin put the revolver in the pocket of a light overcoat. He slung the overcoat over his arm and stroled to the station.

He caught the two-fifteen to London.

At half-past twelve Rhoda, with her father and mother, stepped into the car that was to take them to Landkey-on-Thames. Mrs. Cornboise was, as usual, smartly dressed but there was no suggestion of wedding finery about any of them.

Rhoda was not flinching. In all honesty she believed that she was taking the only honorable course. To "marry" Stornack before her mother's ultimatum expired—before Jack Caermann knew what she was doing. When it was all over, a young telegraphist to him and tell him that he need never give himself up.

"I think I've written to nearly every one I know," remarked Mrs. Cornboise as he drew clear of the traffic belt. "I've told them all that it's an American wedding. The Americans all get married in a private house—at least to judge by the films I've seen."

Neither of them made any reply.

"The professor" was looking gloomy—for he had sensed that Rhoda was unhappy.

"We are!" exclaimed Mrs. Cornboise. "How extremely picturesque—and how much nicer than a crowded hotel! Rhoda, you are in luck!"

"Yes, mother," said Rhoda.

Rhoda allowed herself to be produced out of the car. She smiled at him. Behind him was a man who looked like a farmer. And further back, a man in clerical dress.

To Rhoda, Mrs. Cornboise said in an undertone: "Wake up, dear, we're here!"

HOUSTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—W. O. Huggins, editor of the Houston Chronicle, and former chairman of the Texas state democratic executive committee, died unexpectedly at his home Tuesday night.

FEEL 15 YEARS OLDER THAN YOU REALLY ARE?

Run Down... tired out...
can't sleep; sick headaches
... gas... acid indigestion;
care little about eating?

A stomach which is excessively acid will keep you in just such a condition. It can't digest what you eat because the excessive acidity destroys the activity of the vital gastric fluids. They are the essential necessary to digest your food and prevent it from fermenting and starving your blood.

You have never had any relief because you have not had the remedy which wipes that acidity out of your system. It is a new one... called Placidin... which wipes out the acidity, liquefies the undigested lumps of food and soothes the irritated stomach. Then the gastric fluids become active again immediately your stomach feels as if freed from some terrible weight. You will have an appetite, get back the weight you lost, and feel like a healthy person should.

When you feel stuffed from eating the lightest kind of a meal, mouth and throat dry, heartburn, that usually acidity, get three-ounce package of Placidin from a druggist. Costs very little at the new, lower price. Dr. Charles Allen, who has been successful in Placidin in it. Wipe out the acidity in your stomach before it gets into your bowels. All drug stores carry it. It is not laxative. Does not purge the bowels and contains no sugar.—(adv.)

Holidays are Busy days

There is a hustle and a bustle during the holiday season that keeps every member of the family busy. So many things must be done—trips to make—last minute purchases—suddenly remembered details—general confusion.

A time like this emphasizes the value and convenience of a telephone in the home. Almost magically, you can be everywhere at once. Your friends can reach you with equal ease.

As a practical present for the entire family—and practicality is an important consideration this year—the telephone is ideal. Every day in the year it will add to your family's comfort and happiness. In addition to its daily helpfulness, telephone service is an assurance that the doctor, fire department or police department may be quickly summoned if needed.

Probably the idea of giving a telephone as a present for the whole family is new to you, but it is worth thinking over. For information about the service, just get in touch with the business office or ask any telephone employee.

NRA Praised as Aid to Textile Industry

Many Improvements Cited
by Sloan in Speech at Institute Meeting.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Under the NRA, competitive conditions in the nation's cotton textile industry have improved, George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton-Textile Institute, declared today.

Government action to "protect American industry and American labor in the marketing of American cotton textiles at home and abroad" was urged unanimously by directors of the institute.

The resolution, presented by Sloan, president of the institute, at its annual meeting, contended that production costs "increased by NRA" had enabled foreign competitors "with lower standards of living to invade both foreign and domestic markets."

Export trade, the directors said, could not be regained "without the active co-operation of the government."

Other Resolutions Adopted.
Other resolutions endorsed provisions of the cotton textile code limiting operation hours of productive machinery and recorded the directors as favorable to co-operation between government and industry in "meeting the problem of the farmer" and promoting increased use of cotton and its products.

The last also held that the processing tax had increased costs to the extent that prices were out of line with those of other manufactured products, resulting in decreased cotton consumption.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the institute, Sloan said: "By the code, we attempted to create conditions under which competition could function in a healthy manner. We have made improvements, we are learning by experience, much remains to be accomplished."

Reviewing the past year in the industry, Sloan discussed the effect of the textile code, the processing tax and the recent textile strike.

The code, he said, had relieved the pressure toward minimum wages, equalized conditions of competition and enabled the industry to re-absorb its unemployed.

Balance Near.
Machine-hour limitations had brought the available capacity of the industry more nearly into balance with demand, Sloan said, but mitigating somewhat the effects of the over-capacity of the industry.

"For 1933 and the first six months of 1934," he added, "we have been the inquiries now being made by the federal trade commission will show some profit to the industry as a whole."

Sloan would contrast, he pointed out, with a net loss for the industry of $75,000,000 for the years 1926 to 1931 inclusive.

Sloan said that certain developments during the past six months had exerted a deleterious effect on the cotton business. He listed as these developments a general reaction in business confidence, a reaction from buying, loss of export markets and the processing tax.

Deleterious Effects.
"All these elements and no doubt others have for the time being unbalanced our capacity available under our machine hour limitations with available demand," Sloan declared.

He said that certain developments during the past six months had exerted a deleterious effect on the cotton business. He listed as these developments a general reaction in business confidence, a reaction from buying, loss of export markets and the processing tax.

For situations such as these we gradually need to develop a more flexible technique in balancing available capacity with available demand, and preserving a neutrality between buyer and seller."

Sloan said machine-hour provisions should never be removed. If they were, he added, the "pressure of destructive competition would drive toward the resumption of rapid extension of three-shift operation."

Turning to the processing tax, Sloan said that, coming on top of increased labor costs, it had "driven the price of cotton goods out of line with commodities generally" and was a factor in diverting consumption to other products "which compensatory taxes do not deal with completely."

Commenting briefly on the textile strike, Sloan declared it was a failure "because it was an effort to impose on all the workers of an industry the will of an organization with which only a minority had chosen to affiliate themselves."

New Directors.
Twenty-six new directors of the institute were elected for a three-year term. They were:

N. F. Ayer, Brunswick, Maine; C. S. J. Callaway, LaGrange, Ga.; Charles A. Cannon, Kannapolis, N. C.; J. A. Chapman, Spartanburg, S. C.; J. H. Cheatham, Griffin, Ga.; John B. Clark, Newark, N. J.; A. Miss Fleming Makes Formal Bow At Brilliant Reception at Club

Feminine members of fashionable Atlanta society gathered to pay tribute to Miss Adelaide Fleming, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Fleming, at the brilliant reception given Wednesday afternoon at the Piedmont Driving Club by Mrs. Fleming and the debutante's maternal grandmother, Mrs. James Osmond Wynn.

The ballroom of the club where the guests were received presented a scene of unusual beauty with its elaborate floral decorations, featuring small trees fashioned of fragrant Johanna Hill roses. Lining the walls of the room were hundreds of rose trees alternating with Irish jennies. Mrs. Wynn, Mrs. Fleming and Miss Fleming formed the receiving line at the entrance of the ballroom, standing before a screen of palms and rose trees interspersed with many bouquets and baskets of flowers sent by admiring friends and testifying to the great popularity of the young honor guest.

Punch was served in the loggia of the club by a group of the season's debutantes. The punch bowls were placed on an exquisitely appointed table, covered with pale green satin damask, and centered with a pillar of pink roses reflected in an oval mirror which was outlined with clusters of blue hydrangeas. The table was fringed with silver lace. Tall flesh-tinted tapers arose from the hydrangeas.

Exquisite Tea Table.
Tea was served from a long table covered in pale green and placed in the center of the ballroom. The handsome silver services alternated with compact trees of Johanna Hill roses. Centering the table was a silver vase from which fell a graceful shower of blue lace flowers, cattaleya orchids, and pink bon vardia, the vase framed in a wide frill of fragile Spanish silk lace of a soft ivory tint.

Mrs. Wynn received the guests wearing a becoming gown of filmy black lace posed over black chiffon and trimmed with silver metal cloth. Her flowers were a shoulder cluster of pale pink orchids. Mrs. Fleming chose for the occasion a gown of fuchsia-tinted lace over crepe of the same shade. The low, V-shaped décolletage in the back was outlined with fuchsia velvet ribbon which tied in a bow at the bottom of the V, with the ends extending to the floor. A shoulder spray of orchids completed the effective costume.

The debutante's vivacious blonde beauty was emphasized by her robe de style of palest green antique mode, embroidered in silver apples. The bodice was fashioned with the becoming off-the-shoulder neckline, and was attached to the long, full skirt at the natural waistline. The lovely gown is an imported model, having been brought from Panama for the occasion by Mrs. Wynn for her namesake granddaughter. Miss Fleming carried a dainty mufti fashioned entirely of Panama violets, a perfect complement for the picturesque frock.

Miss Anne Wynn and Miriam Fleming, sisters of the honor guest, assisted in entertaining. The former wore a cocktail gown which combined a silver lame blouse with a black velvet skirt. A cluster of deep purple orchids was worn with the gown. Miss Miriam Fleming was gowned in lustrous white velvet worn with a short cocktail jacket which tied in front and was trimmed with ermine tails. Her flowers were orchids.

Assisting Group.
Others assisting in entertaining were Mesdames William H. Kiser, Frank Imman, Charles J. Haden, Charles J. Rice, John King Otley, E. D. Dainoff, W. E. President Explains Purpose.

Mrs. Claude McGinnis, president of the Atlanta Junior League, makes the following comment apropos of Junior League day at Davison's:

"What does the Junior League do? is the question asked by those not familiar with the activities of the Atlanta Junior League. The purpose of the Junior League is to foster the civic, cultural and philanthropic welfare of this community. Junior League members give their time and interest to many civic organizations, the art museum, Grady hospital, Scottish Rite hospital, Family Welfare Society, Hillside Cottages, the Child Welfare Society, Girl Scouts, Osgood Sanders Day Nursery, and to the Eggleston Memorial Hospital for Children."

It is with this purpose in mind that the Junior League is most closely affiliated, as it maintains a ward of 12 beds, the Junior League ward, and a social service department. The Junior League has made every arrangement so that Junior League day at Davison's will be a gala affair and make your Christmas shopping a pleasure. We will be there, 263 Junior Leaguers, to help you in every way possible."

Raggs, first vice president; Mrs. John S. Cowles, second vice president; Mrs. Henry Wood, treasurer; Mrs. W. Rapp, secretary; Mrs. Elizabeth Fleck, corresponding secretary; Miss Sarah Huff, historian. The chairmen of various committees will be announced later.

Membership in the Pioneer Women of Atlanta is limited to those who have been residents of this city since 1870, or to the daughters of those who resided here at that time. Walker, was born in the city, and was a homesteaded that stood then in what is now the old race track in Piedmont park, and Mrs. Clement was born in the home of her parents, which now forms part of the Piedmont Driving Club. The old mill stone over the entrance today was brought from the Walker mill when the house was built following the war.

Mrs. Clement is the widow of Frank L. Clement. She is active in church and patriotic work, being a lifetime member of St. Mark Methodist church, where her parents were charter members and builders. She is a life member of the Atlanta chapter, U. D. C. She is the mother of three children, Mrs. James A. Bankston, Walker F. and Robert L. Clement, junior vice president of the Citizens & Southern bank.

Frank Thomas Signs Five-Year Contract at Alabama

Coach Frank Thomas, of Alabam, Is Very Tired Man

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 5.—The man looked thin. He was harried. His face looked haunted.

It was Mr. Frank Thomas, coach of that Crimson Tide which is to roll out toward the Rose Bowl at Pasadena on December 21.

And even as we got up out of one of those soft chairs to ask Mr. Thomas whatever in the world was the matter, in came Mr. Jeff Coleman, the business manager of that Tide. His right hand was swollen and in bandages. He was talking to himself, muttering words about lower berths, dollars and meals and stop-overs and hotel rates.

Kind hands led them to seats. They were here for Birmingham's monster salute to the Alabama football team.

"Have you ever taken a team to the Rose Bowl?" asked Mr. Thomas.

The friends present shook negative heads.

"Say," he said, his voice a mere whisper, "salesmen have descended on me. Photographers have overwhelmed me. Movie cameramen have deluged me. Telegraph solicitors have routed me. I have signed my name to so many papers I have quit looking. Maybe I have signed a testimonial for liver pills or sold my house for a dollar and a half and keep the change. I have been called by long distance from here and there. This morning at 3 o'clock a man called and wanted to know what I thought of the game. I think he wanted to bet a dollar on it. Everyone seems to think I know a way for them to get to California. I don't. All I know is this fellow Grover Peoples, the railroad man, says to get on the train. It seems the engineer has the route, including all the latest detours. Man, I'm tired and on top of that I hear that Stanford was just reaching its real form as the season closed and will be at a new peak for us."

Mr. Thomas sank back and relaxed.

A couple of hours later it was announced that Mr. Thomas had been signed to a five-year contract at Alabama, an honor he greatly deserves for the magnificent success he has made. But right now Mr. Thomas is tired.

MR. COLEMAN EXCITED.

Mr. Jeff Coleman was excited.

"See this hand?" he said. "I've got writer's cramp. This is going to be the greatest trip to the west coast the south has ever known. I'm taking calls every two minutes. Already more than 200 people have made reservations for the trip."

"I've talked so much about rates and the price of tickets and berths I am down to a whisper, and they have just started calling. I can't go to sleep at night unless I have a telephone clutched in my hands."

And Mr. Coleman sank back and relaxed.

It seems that this Alabama team, the fourth to go to the Rose Bowl, has caught the public fancy more than any other previous team. The state of Alabama is almost hysterical about it and every day finds many of the citizens deciding their budget can stand the trip.

Four special trains will steam out for the coast. That many are already assured. It is quite possible that one more will be arranged. Near 1,000 football fans will make the trip by train. Others are planning to drive. Planes will carry some of them. Hitchhikers are getting the old thumbs in shape. It looks very much as if quite a crowd will be in the Rose Bowl to see the stars that fell on Alabama fall on Stanford.

ONE CALM MAN.

There is just one calm man. This fellow Grover Peoples, the traveling representative of the Southern Pacific, which road will take the Crimson Tide west.

You know just what a bother it is to get reservations for the wife and one's self on that little trip home to see her folks along about Christmas time? It's quite a job.

Well, Grover Peoples is handling every ticket, hundreds of them, and arranging special trains. There is a story in the man. He has traveled 50,000 miles with southern football teams and has taken the three previous Alabama teams west to play in the bowl. This will be his fourth one.

THE PRIZE REQUEST.

Frank Thomas didn't plan any football practice to speak of during this week. Which is just as well.

In addition to the myriad requests which have come his way, there is one which takes first prize in the show. A lady called up and asked if his team would stop at Las Vegas for a practice. Told that it might, she had one request to make.

She said that her grandfather had lived out there and the family had some lost property there. She wanted to know if Mr. Thomas would investigate for her and try to locate same.

And this is no phoney story. People get excited about these trips.

THE BANQUET.

It was a noble banquet they had for the boys tonight. More than 200 alumni were present at what we shall speak of originally as the festive board.

Nine of the boys received gold watches from the alumni. They are the boys who graduate in the spring. This is interesting because it reveals just what Mr. Thomas will lose and points toward 1935, and what the Crimson Tide will likely be in that good year.

He loses himself just about a football team, does Frank Thomas. And he will face 1935 with some worrying, because any coach who loses what he does must do some worrying.

N. G. I. C. TEAMS ARE ORDERED TO PLAY-OFF

Marist, Commercial and Decatur Are Involved in Deadlock.

By Roy White.

Marist, the defending champion, Commercial and Decatur, two title contenders, have been ordered to play off for the North Georgia Interscholastic conference football championship, or the three teams will remain co-champions.

Members of the association meeting Wednesday afternoon at Fulton High school voted for the three contenders to agree among themselves on a play-off, or should they fail to agree, the championship will be held jointly between Marist, Commercial and Decatur.

FAVOR PLAY-OFF.

Rufus Gordin, coach at Commercial, and Louis Van Houten at Marist, favor a play-off. Sumner, of Decatur, was not present at the meeting and no statement was made from Decatur representatives.

A meeting of officials and coaches of the three schools will likely be held today and a definite announcement concerning the championship will be made at the meeting.

Marist has won four lost one and tied none. Commercial has won four, lost one and tied one in the season just passed.

Spalding County High school, of Griffin, was admitted to membership. Jim King, principal of Spalding County applied for membership and the vote was unanimous.

TOURNEY VOTED.

The annual basketball tournament was voted for the latter part of February depending on dates which will not conflict with those of a majority of the district tournaments.

Russell High, through J. G. Lewis, the basketball coach extended an invitation for the tourney to be held in the new John J. Egan Memorial Hall at East Point. The invitation was unanimously accepted.

A committee consisting of Lewis, as chairman; J. L. Taylor, Druid Hills, and R. H. Taliaferro, R. E. Lee, was named to handle all details pertaining to the basketball tournament. Spalding High, the new member, will be eligible to participate in the February basketball tourney.

PURPLES RENEW GRID PRACTICE

Only light work will be on the program Friday, and Saturday the heavy work slated for next week. Scrimmages will be on the card for Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons.

The team came out of the Miami game without an injury.

Barring new injuries, the team will be in the best condition of the year to take on the state champion, the Miami team, and George Gerakitis, returned to the squad and played in the rout of Tech High and in the Miami games. They will be ready for heavy work in next week's practices.

K. of C. won a close game over the Red Devils at Bass High school court by a score of 25 to 23. Wofford, for Red Devils, and Vanhousen, for K. of C. were the outstanding players of the evening. Wofford, scoring 14 points, led the Red Devils. The Red Devils were handicapped in the latter part of the game after Wofford had been disqualified for having made four personal fouls.

Score by quarters:

K. of C. 8 8 8 8-32
Red Devils 6 6 6 6-24

A six-round will be fought between "Honey Boy" Finnegan and Tiger Deadwyler in the preliminary.

Injured Player Out of Danger

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 5.—(P)—George Mouglin, a guard of the Charlotte, N. C. team of the American Pro Football league, was believed by hospital attaches tonight to be out of danger unless complications develop.

Mouglin was injured here Sunday in a game with the Memphis Tigers. An operation for the removal of a kidney was necessary. Critically ill, Mouglin was given a blood transfusion, with Ray Hostetter, Charlotte fullback, furnishing the blood.

Mouglin's nurse said he probably would remain at the hospital another week.

Until 1939

Frank Thomas has signed a five-year contract with the University of Alabama. Announcement of the new contract was made last night at a gigantic celebration in honor of the Crimson Tide at Birmingham. The Alabama coach will remain at the Capstone until 1939 through the new terms.

Sossong Wins A Free Entry In U. S. 'Stakes

Aloysius (Soup's On) Sossong, captain of the Candy Pan team in the Businessmen's Duckyin league, won a free entry to the United States Duckyin sweepstakes last night and is the first bowler to enter for the big national event from Atlanta.

As the Businessmen's league opened play Wednesday evening, all of the bowlers were canvassed on their desire to get in a preliminary event for a free entry to the United States sweepstakes. Ten players entered, letting the total of the three games bowled in the 15 games. The previous high score of the 10 men winning the entry fee.

Sossong opened with a big 121, came in strong with a tremendous 155 and finished with 95 to total 371 and win the free entry to the United States event, for the $5 entry fee that he posted. George Tyler was second with 359. An entry to the big event costs each player $50.

The world's best duckyin aces will compete in this big individual event, which features the biggest capital prize of any individual event in the world. The winner in the United States 'stakes' collects $1,000 from the exchequer of the National Duckyin Bowling congress. Other prizes are awarded to second and third-place bowlers.

CLARKE, TRONSKY.

Last year, Astor Clarke won the big meet with a grand total of 2,086 for the 15 games. The previous year, Nick Tronsky set three world's records as he walloped the title duckyin for the massive count of 2,101.

In 1932 Ray Barnes collected the big prize. Many Atlantans will remember Jack Whalen, who was collected with the local alleys when he will be on sale at the young man won the first staging of the "U. S." in 1931.

The junior chamber of commerce sponsoring this big bowling event, the first national bowling event, has ever been staged in Atlanta, and the first that has been bowled south of Norfolk, Va., or Louisville, Ky.

Tickets will be on sale 40 cents each which entitles the holder to one admission to one of the three blocks of five games each that will be bowled at 2, 5 and 8 p. m., Saturday, January 5, 1935. A group of three tickets, for all three blocks, will be offered at the bargain price of $1 to onlookers.

George Isemann, secretary of the National Duckyin Bowling Congress, will arrive in Atlanta a few days in advance of the big contest to check the entries and assign alleys.

GRANDSTAND.

The entire grandstand section of Blich's Bowling Center will be screened off so that none but paid admissions will be able to view any of the bowling. World's record holders from Hartford, Washington, Baltimore, Richmond, Boston, New York and all big bowling centers will have their aces competing here.

Tickets will be on sale at various hotels and stores and by all members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Spectators are urged to buy their tickets in advance to the grandstand and temporary seats to be built will only accommodate a given number.

How To Play This Football In One Letter---Ask Thomas

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 5.—Frank Thomas' Alabama eleven's fame has spread completely around the world and there is now an Alabama team in Australia, the land down under.

Thomas said tonight he had received a letter from a gentleman in Australia who said he had seen movies in a newspaper of the Alabama-Tennessee game and had formed a football team. "We don't know any football but rugby," he said, "please write me and send some plays and an explanation of how to play football."

Now, that is an easy request, explain in one letter how to play football.

DIZZY TO GET BETWEEN $20,000 AND $26,000 PAY

Breadon Refuses To Reveal Exact Amount of New Salary.

BRADENTON, Fla., Dec. 5.—(P)—Jerome Herman Dean, who received a salary check of $8,500 for pitching the St. Louis Cardinals into the National league championship last season, got a big raise today.

Declining to announce the exact amount, "Dizzy" said it was between $20,000 and $26,000. He had said he would hold out for $25,000.

At St. Louis, Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals, announced the end of weeks of dickering with the statement Dean's contract was signed and in the mail.

Breadon would not reveal the terms of the agreement.

"DIZZY" HAPPY.

"Boy, am I happy!" the star right-hander said as he told of the contract just before starting out for a round of golf. "I can hit that ball a mile."

Final arrangements, said the pitcher who won 30 games for the Cardinals, were made in a telephone talk with Breadon this morning.

Dean said Branch Rickey, vice president of the club, had named the figure in another telephone conversation last night and Breadon confirmed it this morning.

Twice last week the elder half of the "Dizzy and Duff" act held long conferences with Breadon while the Cardinal president was visiting here. But the contract remained unsigned when Breadon left for St. Louis Monday.

Still facing the St. Louis management are salary negotiations with Dean, who won 19 games and let 11 after being kept out of play twice because of trouble with Breadon and Manager Frankie Frisch.

PREVIOUS STRIKE.

The first time Paul, joined by Dizzy, struck for a raise in his estimated $3,000 salary. The two returned to work without announcing whether the strike was successful.

Again, they lost time when they refused to accompany the team to Detroit for an exhibition game. Dizzy, who was in a rage and tore up his uniform when a fine was slapped on him. Differences later were ironed out and both returned to the mound in time to play the leading part in the thrilling stretch drive that carried the Cardinals into the World Series after they trailed the Giants by seven games early in September.

They won the four games that gave St. Louis the World Series victory over Detroit who won two straight while Dizzy came back for his second victory after dropping a decision.

Dizzy's happiness, as increased today by the signing of an advertising contract worth $15,000. He said he felt so elated last night he ordered an expensive automobile.

As is his custom, Dizzy, from far away Bradenton, Fla., where he is wintering, got in a few words, asserting his salary for next season would be between $20,000 and $26,000, compared with $8,500 for last year.

"Boy, am I happy!" the tall, eccentric right-hander yelled over his "satisfactory" contract.

BREADON HAPPY.

Breadon appeared equally happy. Regarding salary, Breadon had nothing whatever to say but volunteered the information that Dizzy might do some talking, but was, of course, off.

While nothing official was forthcoming, the announcement that Dizzy had signed gave rise to rumors that negotiations for the sale of the Cardinals and their minor league affiliates to Lew Wentz, Oklahoma oil multimillionaire, might be reopened. Durying the negotiations it was reported Wentz shied away from closing the deal until Dizzy and his brother Paul had agreed to terms.

Breadon, who returned from Florida last night after a ten-day absence, said, however, the deal was definite off.

This gave Coach Harry Mehre, of the Georgia team, one of the whitest of our coaches, a chance to get in an elegant wisecrack.

"I'm glad we won those five straight, or I might have an 'X' be-

Georgia Boys Honored By Athens Rotarians

Touch of Sadness Injected When Eleven Stalwart Seniors Are Introduced; Hirsch Ill.

By Jimmy Jones.

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 5.—Several years ago, two loyal Athenians and Rotarians, Morton Hodgson and Weaver Bridges, put a couple of very capable ideas together and decided that it would be a nice thing for the Athens Rotary Club to give a little banquet at the end of the season in appreciation of Athens' two football teams, the University of Georgia and the Athens High school.

The Rotary luncheon, of course, became an annual affair, for the Rotarians do not start something and then not finish it.

Today's was the sixth annual reception and the squads of Georgia and the High school, along with their coaches and other guests, assembled along the broad tables in the Hotel Georgia dining room and dined with the Rotarians.

Boyer Grier, superintendent of the Athens schools, was chairman of the day's festivities, while Professor Claude Chance, of the University of Georgia faculty, introduced the speakers. Professor Chance is president of the Rotarians.

HIRSCH ILL.

Harold Hirsch, of Atlanta, prominent attorney and staunchest of Georgia supporters anywhere, was scheduled to make the principal speech for the occasion, but was ill and could not attend. Mr. Hirsch, however, sent a wire of congratulations to the Georgia team on the whirlwind finish, in made of its schedule in defeating its last five opponents, including Yale and Tech, and having but one touchdown—that by Yale—compiled against its record, while rolling up a total of 80 points.

Eleven Georgia players, for whom this banquet was Auld Lang Syne, were introduced, along with their teammates. (The eleven players who were finishing up had an "X" set down beside their names, signifying that this was their last appearance at the banquet.)

This gave Coach Harry Mehre, of the Georgia team, one of the whitest of our coaches, a chance to get in an elegant wisecrack.

"I'm glad we won those five straight, or I might have an 'X' be-

WILD APPLAUSE GREET'S NEWS AT BIG DINNER

President "Mike" Denny Highly Praises Coach in Address.

By Ralph McGill.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 5.—Frank Thomas, whose Alabama football team of this season has gone through undefeated and untied, which will meet Stanford in the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, Cal., on January 1, has signed a five-year contract with Alabama, it was announced here tonight.

The announcement was made by President George H. (Mike) Denny, of the university, before more than 300 Alabama alumni gathered here for a gigantic celebration in honor of the Crimson eleven from Tuscaloosa.

It was received with wild applause, the crowd standing and applauding for several minutes. Thomas' present contract had one year to run. The new one places him at Alabama through the 1939 season. He announced that the same coaching staff would be retained. This includes Harold Drew as first assistant. Hank Crisp is the efficient athletic director at Alabama. He also coaches the line.

VOLS SOUGHT HIM.

Thomas, despite denials from Tennessee, had been seriously sought by representatives of that institution who approached him and Bernie Bieman, formerly of Tulane and now of Minnesota.

Thomas came to Alabama from the University of Georgia where he was assistant coach. He is a former Notre Dame quarterback under the late Knute Rockne and is but 36 years old. He ranks as one of the most successful coaches in the game.

Thomas was highly praised by President Denny.

"Thomas," he said, "has not only been one of our most successful coaches, but he has been a great man for co-operating with the full university life. He is popular with us all and we are delighted to announce that he will be with us for five more years."

Thomas, in expressing his gratification, thanked the team, alumni and the university for its cooperation.

"We had some men who became great stars," he said, "but if I had to select the two men most responsible for bringing us through, I would name Joe Demyanovich and Riley Smith."

SMITH, DEMYANOVICH.

Smith is quarterback and Riley is a student. He had played Little football before coming to the university. Demyanovich had not played any football at all before coming to Alabama. Smith is an All-Southern quarter on many selections and Demyanovich a fullback on many all-star teams.

All-American players on the Alabama team of this year are Willard (Dixie) Howell, halfback; Don Hutson, end, and Bill Lee, tackle.

The entire team was present tonight and was introduced by Captain Bill Lee. This Alabama team is one of the greatest, and probably the greatest team ever to be developed in the south.

The chief address was made by Hugh Morrow, prominent businessman of Birmingham and a football player at Alabama in 1903. His son, Bob Morrow, is a star guard of this year's eleven.

Short talks were made by Morgan Blake and O. B. Keeler and Bill Munday, of the Journal; Jimmy Burns, of the Georgian and Freddie Sington and Ralph McGill, of The Constitution, all of Atlanta.

NEWMAN SPEAKS.

Zipp Newman, the popular sports writer, was the last speaker.

By FREDERICK GARDNER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(P)—The stock market followed the bullish trend blazed by wheat and corn today. Broad demand for securities brought Wall Street the most active day in stocks since July 27. Turnover totaled 1,630,931 shares against less than a million in the preceding session.

Grains Advance.

Still feeling the stimulus of the heavy demand for the latest treasury offerings, the bond market moved closer to its July peaks.

Share buyers evidently were impressed by reports of a recovery in dividends, additional evidence of business recovery, improvement in the investment market and the strength of leading commodities. Cotton futures closed 55 to 51.10 higher in New York. Sugar options participated in the trek to higher levels.

Radio showed some of its old-time fire as reports spread that directors of the corporation were considering plans to reduce accumulations on the preferred stocks. In a heavy turnover, the B stock rose to 51.10, higher in a fraction of 44 and the common ended nearly a point higher after a busy day.

Continued demand for dividend-paying preferred shares indicated investors had a hand in the market.

National Lead Sues. National Lead jumped 7 points to a new peak at 164. Gains of 1 to more than 2 points were recorded in American Sugar, National Distillers, National Biscuit, United States Steel preferred, Western Union, Boeing Aircraft, Deere, J. I. Case, American Smelting, Eastman Kodak, Fairbanks Morse, McClellan Stores, Ingersoll Rand and Industrial Rayon.

Rails held their ground but yielded the spotlight to industrial specialists.

By a small margin, the Standard Statistics Company average for 90 stocks moved up slightly on the advance from the mid-September low. It finished at 75.9, up five-tenths.

Steel reports encouraged trade observers to look for a continuation of slow expansion. The Iron Age stressed the rise in scrap prices as indicative of hopefulness in that industry. It estimated current operations of the industry had risen to 20 per cent of capacity from 20 a week ago, the seventh consecutive weekly gain.

The dollar maintained a robust tone in foreign exchange dealings.

Sugar Prices Cut. NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(P)—The American Sugar Refining Company today announced a reduction of .10 of a cent a pound in refined sugar on the basis of 4.40 cents a pound. The leading refiners followed the cut.

Cat Has 28 Toes. LAKE BUTLER, Fla. (UP)—Twenty-eight toes for one cat seems unfair, but that's how many Mrs. Lily Richards' cat has. Mrs. Richards said the seven toes on each foot sometimes give it the way when mice and rats are to be pursued.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS. BEER & CO.—Although the rails have not yet reached the confidence of the rest of the market, the constructive movement of the industrial sector has been distinctly encouraging.

ABBOTT, PROCTOR & FAINE—It looks very much as though the market has all the rest and consolidation it needed and it again is in a position to maintain selective strength.

FENNER & BEANE—The persistence with which stocks have moved upward after technical interruptions in the face of widely recognized uncertainties and obstacles, creates the impression that a constructive movement of worth-while proportions is in progress.

COTTON OPINIONS. BEER & CO.—The market favors the long side of the market for trading.

ABBOTT, PROCTOR & FAINE—Trade interests continue to take contracts from the market but there is very little public speculative interest.

FENNER & BEANE—The market appears to have made a turn for the better and the grain market is encouraging.

GRAIN OPINIONS. FENNER & BEANE—With any response from foreign markets we look for a continued upturn in wheat prices but in any event believe reactions will be only temporary.

New Serum Destroys Cancer Cells But Leaves Normal Tissue Unhurt

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Discovery of a serum which kills cancer cells after they have been removed from the human body, and does no injury to healthy human tissues so removed, was announced here today by Dr. Thomas Lumsden, director of the London Cancer Research Laboratory.

Lumsden, one of the best-known among conservative cancer scientists, said the serum cannot be at present human body without damage to normal cells similarly treated.

The serum, Dr. Lumsden reported, was obtained from the blood of an animal after cancerous cells from an animal of a different species had been implanted.

(Human cancer cells live and grow indefinitely in laboratory test tubes and healthy tissues do the same. These furnish the material for experiments outside the body.)

As a further step in his investigation, the British scientist said it was found that the serum will kill cancer cells implanted from one animal to another animal of the same species, and so raises the resistance that once animals are cured it is impossible to infect them with cancer again.

The report, stating that Lumsden and his co-workers are engaged in refining the serum, concludes:

"The most that can be said is that this line of research offers distinct encouragement. It might be mentioned that there is no evidence that cancer is due to a germ or is infectious in the general sense."

AMERICANS SKEPTICAL OF LUMSDEN'S WORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—James Ewing, M. D., of Memorial hospital,

New York, recognized as one of the foremost American cancer scientists, said today when asked to comment on the reports of an anti-cancer serum found by Dr. Thomas Lumsden in London:

"The only comment I would make is that Dr. Lumsden's work has not been widely accepted by his colleagues."

Dr. William H. Woglom, of the Crocker Institute of Cancer Research of Columbia University, made the same comment.

Dr. Woglom explained that Dr. Lumsden's work on this line of cancer research has been going on for about 10 years. Lumsden's first report on the anti-cancer serum was published in 1924. He has been in the United States since.

In the main, these experiments do not deal with what medical men call spontaneous cancers, which are the kind that humans and animals suffer from. Much of the experiment has been done with induced cancers, caused by inoculating an animal with cancer cells from another animal.

3,500,000 VETERANS IN NEED OF BONUS. J. K. FINCH ASSERTS

Declaring that the three and one-half million service men are in need of the money they would receive from the government as bonus, J. K. Finch, vice president of the Atlanta detachment of the Associated War Veterans, Wednesday night told an audience at Veterans' Hall that the cash payment of adjusted service certificates is a matter for the immediate attention of government officials.

Denouncing charges that if paid the veterans would squander the money, Finch cited results of a survey which he said disclosed that when the veterans borrowed on their certificates the money went to good use. He said the purchase of home and business requirements took 20 per cent of the money obtained by the loans; approximately 65 per cent, he said, was used for personal and family needs; 8 per cent for the purchase of automobiles and 7 per cent went for purposes that have no known practical benefit.
